Britain Urging Peaceful End To Crisis At Suez

Warns Forces To 'Stand By,' Await Accord

Dulles Drafts New Plan Incorporating Both Sides' Ideas

LONDON, Aug. 18 (AP)—Britain urged a peaceful settlement of the Suez crisis today, but warned that British troops will stand by in the Mediterranean until her vital interests are assured.

Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd asked the 22-nation Suez conference for unanimous approval of the West's proposal for an international authority to operate the canal seized by Egypt.

He called on the nations represented, most of whom support the West, to draw up a broad statement of principles and lay them before President Gamal Abdel Nasser of Egypt for his reaction.

U.S. Secretary of State Dulles, it was learned tonight, has drafted a document setting out the basic issues of the dispute already outlined at the conference. It contains also a consensus of the various views expressed, and suggestions for solution of the problem.

The hope is that through private discussions among all delegations over the weekend a declaration acceptable to all sides can be prepared. In any event, Dulles is expected to present a resolution to the conference Monday. His tentative declaration sets forth these basic principles of the Big Three:

Removal of the canal from politics, respect for the sovereignty of Egypt, a fair return to Egypt for the use of the canal on Egyptian territory, fair compensation to the Suez Canal Co. and establishment of an international board to run, enlarge and improve the canal.

The board would include Egypt as a permanent member, with other participants to be selected in a

At Adlai's Request

Butler Renamed Nat'l Chairman For Demo Party

CHICAGO, Aug. 18—UP— Democratic presidential nominee Adlai E. Stevenson Saturday picked a team of Paul M. Butler as Democratic national chairman and James A. Finnegan as campaign director to manage his drive for victory in November.

The Democratic national committee, in response to a personal request from Stevenson, re-elected Butler, a South Bend, Ind., lawyer, as committee chairman.

Butler, who was picked for the party job in 1954 by Stevenson, had submitted his resignation in line with the tradition that the new presidential nominee has the right to select the chairman of the national committee.

Butler came before the committee after meeting almost an hour with Stevenson. When members of the committee praised his pre-convention work, he said "you do not realize you are writing my political epitaph."

"In a moment I am submitting my resignation as chairman of the Democratic national committee and I urge you to accept it," Butler said.

There were tears in Butler's eyes when he handed in his resignation. But before the committee could act on it, Stevenson came before the group "to earnestly plead" that it not permit Butler to resign and to re-elect him instead.

Stevenson also appointed Finnegan, a Philadelphia politician who managed his successful campaign of nomination, as director of the Democratic campaign to un-

Republicans Face Fight On Civil Rights

Southerners Say Party's Platform 'Not Acceptable'

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 18 (AP)—The tentative civil rights plank in the Republican National Cnvention platform today failed to meet the approval of delegates from the southern states of Louisiana, Texas, Arkansas, Mississippi, Georgia, Florida and Virginia.

Tom Stagg of Shreveport, La., reported that, after a caucus, delegates from these states decided to appeal to the full Platform Committee that the language be softened with respect to the Supreme Court ruling outlawing racial segregation in public schools.

Failing in this, Stagg said the Southerners would consider the possibility of filing a minority report and taking the issue to the convention floor, as was done at the Democratic National Convention at Chicago.

Stagg said, however, he did not know yet whether, under convention rules, the Southerners would have sufficient committee strength to get the issue placed before the convention.

Republican party policy drafters meanwhile finished what they described as a "short, easy-to-read" platform lauding President Eisenhower and promising to continue his foreign and domestic programs.

The civil rights issue also was controversial at the Democratic convention, the compromise language smoothed over a threatened party split.

Republican spokesmen in San Francisco said the party's Platform Committee of 105 members had aid from the White House, and would carry some of the highlights of President Eisenhower's State of the Union message to Congress last January.

Its key features were declarations that the Republicans have

Mail Revisions

Change In Rules For Parcel Post Being Considered

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18 (AP) — Postmaster General Summerfield said today he plans to discard the 35 - year - old requirement that sealed third class and parcel post packages carry the words "may be opened for postal inspection."

He is asking postal patrons to express their views on this and, assuming a favorable reaction, expects to junk the regulation before the heavy Christmas mailing season.

The prospective change is based on an opinion from the Postal Solicitor's Office that when a sender puts a sealed package into the mails with the cheaper third or fourth class postage attached, he gives "implicit authorization that the parcel may be opened for inspection, if necessary, in accordance with law."

Third class mail consists principally of merchandise samples. Fourth class is parcel post.

If people don't want their parcels subject to inspection, Summerfield said, they may mail them first class and mark them as such.

"First class parcels, subject to the higher first class postage rates are not subject to inspection except under certain rigidly prescribed legal procedures," he added.

The postmaster general said he thought his plan would be a "significant elimination of red tape."

The "may be opened" inscription has been required since 1921, and originally had to be printed. The present postal administration changed this in 1953 to permit the marking by any legible method.

Mississippi Calls Mass Meeting To Plot Its Strategy

JACKSON, Miss., Aug. 18 (AP)—Mississippi's States Righters, their roll made uncertain by what happened at Chicago this week, today called a "statewide mass meeting" to be held in Jackson Tuesday.

Their role is uncertain because of the growing likelihood the state's regular Democrats will have another state convention and do exactly what the States Righters have wanted all along to do.

That is to put on the November ballot a state of presidential electors pledged not to the Democratic or Republican nominees but to some other candidates—men sympathetic with segregation and states rights.

If the State Democratic Convention is called back into session and does that, Circuit Judge M. M. McGowan said today, "we'll gladly bow out."

The mass meeting called for 2 p.m. Tuesday at Jackson's Hotel Heidelberg will, meanwhile, serve the purpose of measuring the popular appeal of a States Rights movement not under Democratic auspices.

The States Righters are in a strange position. They were "read out" of the Democratic party by Gov. J. P. Coleman last spring, at a time when Coleman had high hopes the North-South differences would be settled within the Democratic party.

But now, as a result of what happened in Chicago, the governor no doubt will be faced with strong demands among regular Democrats for a recalled state convention—and in independent presidential elector slate sympathetic to states rights.

Judge McGowan, a member of the steering committee of the Mississippians for States Rights, seemed to believe the Democrats would offer such an unpledged slate.

"I believe Mississippi will go for a States Rights canidate this Unknown Child Of Tourist Faces Death By Rabies

ROCKWALL, Tex., Aug. 18—UP Rockwall Mayor Howard Dobbs said Saturday he has been unable to locate a four or five year old boy who faces death unless he is given rabies shots soon.

Dobbs said the boy may have been a tourist going through Texas. The boy's family stopped at a grocery here Tuesday to buy a soft drink. While there, a dog bit the boy. The mother was upset, Dobbs said, but the father reassured her and the family got back into the car and headed east on U. S. 67.

The dog died Thursday and the state laboratory at Austin said the dog was rabid.

No one knew for certain what kind of car the family was driving. Dobbs said the woman mentioned that they had been driving all day, and that it had been a hot trip. No one noticed the license tags on the car or knew if it was a Teas tag or from some other state.

Unless the boy gets anti-rabies shots soon, he almost surely will die a horrible death. The mayor has asked the family to call him collect at Rockwall, telephone 2-3230.

Rockwall is northeast of Dallas and the family may have left the state.

Nixon Asks Free Choice Of GOP's Vice-President

Result Of Stassen's Poll Given

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 18—UP—Harold E. Stassen Saturday announced that the results of a new private poll showed that the selection of Vice President Richard M. Nixon as a running mate for President Eisenhower would cost the GOP ticket an estimated 4,620,000 votes.

Stassen, who wants Gov. Christian A. Herter of Massachusetts to win the second place on the ticket, said the poll, financed and conducted privately, was taken in 200 areas of the United States on Aug. 10 through the 13th just as the Democratic nominating convention was getting under way.

Stassen sent copies of the last figures to each convention delegate Saturday in the hope of generating strength for Herter who has announced that he will request the withdrawal of his name if it is submitted to the convention.

Simultaneously, Sen. Styles Bridges (R-N. H.) released the results of another poll he said indicated re-election of a Nixon-Eisenhower ticket.

Bridges told a news conference that an impartial agency (Robert Maheu Associates of Washington) brought promises of support for Eisenhower-Nixon from 57.7 per cent of those questioned. The agency said the poll showed 35.3 per cent opposed to the present incumbents, with 7 per cent having no opinion.

The burden of Stassen's new figures was that Nixon would detract heavily from the ticket, but the poll did not show that such a vote loss would be sufficient for the Democrats to beat the Republican national slate in November.

The poll anticipated a vote of about 60 million this fall. On this basis, voters were asked "if Nixon is the vice presidential candidate with Eisenhower, who do you think you will vote for — Eisenhower or Stevenson?" The replies, according to Stassen, showed Eisenhower 45.7 per cent or 27,420,000 votes; Stevenson, 39.3 per cent or 23,580,000 votes, with an additional 7,280,000 spread in the "do not know" or "refuse to answer" groups.

Asked for their candidatorial choice in event some Republican other than Nixon ran with the President, the Stassen poll showed Eisenhower 48.3 per cent or 28,980,000 votes; Stevenson 34.4 per cent or 20,640,000 votes.

Throws Race Wide Open At San Francisco

Over 1,000 Greet Vice President On Convention Arrival

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 18—UP—Vice President Richard M. Nixon said Saturday the Republican national convention should have "free choice" to select the "strongest possible" running mate for President Eisenhower.

Nixon gave his views on the second place contest, which he is expected to win, as he was welcomed to this convention city by a cheering crowd of about 1,000 of his supporters at International Airport.

His arrival coincided with the release by Harold E. Stassen of a new private poll made for Stassen as part of his drive to keep Nixon off the ticket this year. Stassen, who is promoting Gov. Christian A. Herter of Massachusetts for the vice presidency, said the poll showed Nixon would cost the GOP some 4.6 million votes.

But Sen. Styles Bridges of New Hampshire, a Nixon backer, countered with a poll of his own which, he said, indicated re-election of an Eisenhower-Nixon ticket. As between Nixon and Herter, Bridges said his poll showed 4.3 per cent for Nixon compared to 2.7 for Herter.

Nixon was smiling and apparently confident as he and his wife, Pat, debarked from their plane and rode into downtown San Francisco at the head of the police-escorted motorcade.

He told newsmen he harbored no ill will toward Stassen. He said he thinks his No. 1 Republican critic will enthusiastically support whatever ticket the convention selects.

Asked how he feels about his own strength, Nixon said "natur-

Hall Denounces Truman For Attack On Finances Of National Government

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 18 (AP)—GOP Chairman Leonard Hall blasted Harry S. Truman, the one-time Democratic powerhouse, tonight in the opening salvo of a Republican jamboree aimed at making Dwight D. Eisenhower president for another four years.

In a news conference, Hall called upon the new Democratic ticket to ask Truman to apologize for a statement Hall said Truman made in his address to the Democratic National Convention finale last night. Hall quoted Truman as having said:

"I wish I could go on and discuss with you the finances of this government. I don't think there is anybody alive that knows any more about this than I do, and I want to say to you that they are in danger right now from this bunch of racketeers."

Hall termed this an insulting statement and said:

"Harry Truman in making this statement reached a pretty low ebb in politics. I'm not surprised because he was reared in Missouri and got his training under the old Pendergast machine. (The

Berserk Farmer Shoots Physician, Commits Suicide

MAGEE, Miss., Aug. 18 (AP) — A south Mississippi farmer who had been under treatment for "nervousness" went berserk today — shooting one doctor, threatening to kill another — and then killed himself.

Simpson County coroner Howard O. Upton identified the dead man as J. A. Hosey, 40, who only today had ginned his first bale of 1956 cotton.

Upton said Hosey, after arranging for the cotton to be handled, went today to the Magee hospital where he asked for any of the four local doctors who had been treating him. None of the four was there.

The coroner said Hosey then went to the office of Dr. John Henry and shot three times at Henry, who was sitting at his desk talking to his nurse.

One bullet struck Henry in the left side and lodged between two ribs. It did not enter the chest cavity. The wound was not considered serious.

The unidentified nurse crawled under a desk.

The coroner said Hosey then went two blocks away, gun in hand, to the office of Dr. Earl T. Lewis.

Mrs. Lewis quoted him as asking for Dr. Lewis and saying, "I

Ike Expected To Endorse Nixon As His Running Mate

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 18—UP—The possibility developed Saturday that President Eisenhower will specifically endorse Vice President Richard M. Nixon before next Wednesday's vice presidential balloting at the Republican national convention.

Gov. Goodwin J. Knight of California told a secret meeting of his state's delegation to the convention:

"I'm reliably informed by the highest sources that Mr. Eisenhower will make his endorsement of Nixon soon."

Nixon was the center of angry controversy at the secret meeting as Republicans gathered for a peace-and-prosperity convention.

Knight is balking a plan to give the state delegation's unanimous endorsemet of Nixon's renomination. Senate Republican leader William F. Knowland, also a Californian, is lined up with Nixon and against Knight in the fight. Knight said he has been promised chairmanship of the delegation but that Knowland is seeking to withhold it unless the governor endorses Nixon.

"If you wait you can get your endorsement," a United Press reporter heard Knight tell the delegation. "I'm reliably informed by the highest sources that Mr. Eisenhower will make his endorse-

Egyptians Back UN Protection Of Traffic On Suez

LONDON, Aug. 18—UP—Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser's political adviser said Saturday Egypt would be willing to agree that violation of free navigation on the Suez Canal would be an act of aggression under the United Nations charter.

But Wing Commander Aly Sarbi said Egypt would not agree to the Western plan for international control of the 101-mile waterway.

In an exclusive interview with United Press, Sabri said the United Nations was the best guarantee of free navigation on the canal.

He said he believed "second thoughts" in the West have cooled the danger of an outbreak of violence in the Suez crisis.

Sabri is here as an observer at the 22-nation conference. Egypt declined its invitation to participate in it.

Larry Lipson Killed In Crash; R. Tyler Hurt

Larry Lipson, Monroe youth, was dead on arrival at the St. Francis hospital late last night, and Richard Tyler, also of Monroe, was injured when their late model sedan went out of control on a straight stretch of Riverside Drive near Forsythe Park and turned over.

Lipson was thrown clear of the car, but Tyler was pinned in for almost an hour before he was extricated. He could not be removed until a wrecker was called to lift the car off him.

His condition could not be determined late last night, but he suffered a severe laceration on the head. He also directed rescuers in freeing him from the automobile. A doctor living nearby attended to him while he was pinned in the auto.

GOP Convention Gilded With Hollywood Touch

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 18—UP—The Republican national convention opening Monday will be a four - day political extravanza, streamlined for television and gilded with a Broadway and Hollywood touch.

The big show in the Cow Palace will be one day shorter than the Democratic convention held in Chicago this week. And it will have fewer sessions. It also will have few political fights.

Except for the first day, when late morning and late afternoon sessions will be held, the Republicans will meet only once a day, beginning at 3:30 p.m. PDT (6:30 p.m. EDT).

Because of the three-hour time lag between the East and West Coasts, this means the sessions will be seen by televiewers in the populous East during the peak evening hours.

The Republicans, taking advantage of their West Coast location, have drawn heavily on the Hollywood pool of screen stars and other entertainers to help attract a big TV audience. Broadway and the opera will be represented, too.

Movie actor Wendell Corey will serve as master of ceremonies for Personal Incomes Of Americans Hit Record High Level Throughout Nation

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18 (AP)—Almost everybody made more money last year, the Commerce Department reported today.

It said the personal income of Americans rose to new records in all regions and in most states in 1955. North Dakota had the biggest percentage gain over 1954 — 16 per cent.

In only four states did personal income last year dip below 1954. These were Iowa, down 5 per cent; South Dakota, down 6 per cent; Nebraska, down 4 per cent; and Kansas, down less than one per cent.

The department said these losses were "traceable to a reduced volume of farm income." In these states as elsewhere, total nonfarm income set an all-time record.

For the country as a whole, the 303-billion-dollars in personal income for 1955 was 7 per cent above the 1954 total.

North Dakota's spectacular advance was attributed to a strong recovery in the state's farm income following several years of decline. A big increase in wheat yields contributed to a 60 per cent increase in North Dakota's net farm income.

Thirteen per cent increases in total income were registered by Alabama and Nevada, and gains of 11 per cent were shown in Maine, Mississippi, Georgia and Florida.

Over the country as a whole, per capita income amounted to $1,847 in 1955, a 5 per cent increase from the previous year.

The range of per capita income was wide, however. Delaware led with $2,513 and Mississippi trailed with $946.

State-by-state figures on per capita income, as listed by the department, included:

STATE	1954	1955	Per Cent Change 1954to1955
Alabama	1,054	1,181	12
Arkansas	986	1,062	8

Long Says Adlai Kefauver Hope To Visit Louisiana

CHICAGO, Aug. 18—UP— Gov. Earl Long said today Adlai Stevenson and Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.) may visit Louisiana soon.

Camille Gravel Jr. of Alexandria, Louisiana national committeeman, said the former Illinois governor had expressed "a real desire to come to Louisiana."

Stevenson won the Democratic party's nomination for presidential candidate at the national convention here and Kefauver was named his running mate.

Long said the ticket couldn't be better."

"They both deserve the nomination," he said. "They have been out fighting the battle and took their case to the people."

He said they might accept invitations to Louisiana but "it's too early to know if they can come."

Louisiana's delegation supported Stevenson from the beginning, but turned down Long's advice on Kefauver for the No. 2 spot and, instead, voted for Sen. John Kennedy (D-Mass) on both ballots.

"I think the farm states were a major factor in the nomination and will be a major factor in the election" Long said. "The farmers are aroused over farm conditions and the people are with them."

"A lot of people might have thought I would have a chip on my shoulder about Kefauver because he happened to be invited to New Orleans by the snappy mayor (deLesseps Morrison) who has never been a political friend of mine.

"As far as I'm concerned, Kefauver and anyone else can come back with another committee."

Kefauver brought his famous Senate crime investigating committee with him to New Orleans to probe gambling during Long's last administration.

Gravel recalled that Stevenson carried Louisiana by 39,000 votes in 1952, but predicted he would carry it "by several times that figure" in 1956.

State Committee Chairman Rufus Hayes, Baton Rouge, an early supporter of Stevenson and Kefauver, said the ticket was a good one.

Shoe 'Borrower' Sought By Police

LONDON, Aug. 18—UP— Police were searching Saturday for a man who goes to the library for shoes instead of books.

The man has struck twice at the Kensington public library, stealing shoes shed by comfort-loving readers.

The latest victim, retired Naval Capt. John Crane, closed up his book Friday night and then started groping with his stocking feet for his shoes.

"I've lost my shoes," he said.

"Yes, sir, we've heard that one already," said the librarian.

But it was no joke and Crane had to walk home in a pair of shoes the Porter gave him.

"Embarrassing," said Crane.

"Puzzling," said the police.

Kefauver, Tired But Triumphant, Returns To Home

CHICAGO, Aug. 18—UP—Sen. Estes Kefauver, tired but triumphant after his battle with the party pros for the Democratic vice presidential nomination, headed Saturday for his home state of Tennessee and a rest.

Before leaving the political convention behind him, Kefauver made a plea for unity between regular Democratic organizations and his loyal supporters who won him second place on the Democratic ticket.

In a brief talk before a meeting of the Democratic national committee, Kefauver called upon the regular organization to accept his workers into the fold and work together for a Democratic victory in November. In the past, he commintended, there "hasn't been the best possible co-operation" between Kefauver workers and the regular Democratic organization.

Kefauver looked tired but happy as he and Mrs. Kefauver walked in on the national committee meeting. In his famous campaign manner, he walked slowly down the aisle and shook hands all around.

The Tennesseean told the committee the nomination of Adlai E. Stevenson as the presidential candidate has brought "new hope to our people and the peoples of the world." He said he has "an increasing feeling" that the Democrats are "on the road to a great victory in November."

Shortly after his talk before the national committee, Kefauver, accompanied by his wife and a few members of his staff, left by chartered plane for Nashville, Tenn. From there he was to go to his farm at McMinnville, Tenn., for a week's vacation with his family.

While his campaign plans are still being mapped, Kefauver is not expected to tarry long before hitting the campaign trail and fighting "as hard as I can" for a Democratic victory in November.

Party strategists are looking to Kefavuer, who made his political fortunes by handshaking his way down the main streets of America, to carry the Democratic campaign to the grass roots. In the weeks ahead Kefauver is expected to criss-cross the nation stomping for the Stevenson-Kefauver ticket.

In the day after Kefauver's dramatic photofinish victory over Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass.) for the vice-presidential nomination, there were still misgivings among some Democrats, particularly from the South, over the lanky, drawling Tennesseean who was opposed by the party leaders.

Gov. J. P. Coleman of Mississippi, for instance, said there is "grave doubt" whether Democrats can carry his state in November with Kefauver on the ticket.

Cooper Resigns, And Ike Accepts

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18—UP—President Eisenhower Saturday accepted the resignation of John Sherman Cooper as ambassador to India, effective at a date still to be set.

Cooper, a Kentuckian, resigned to run for the U.S. Senate seat left open by the death of Sen. Alben W. Barkley (D). He did so at the personal request of Mr. Eisenhower who is campaigning for a Republican-controlled Senate in the next Congress.

Mr. Eisenhower accepted Cooper's resignation "regretfully" but said he knew he was resigning "in order to be able to serve your country in another important capacity."

Chandler Heads 3rd Party Group

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 18—UP—Robert G. Chandler, Shreveport attorney, today was elected permanent chairman of the Committee of the States Rights Party of Louisiana at a meeting of some 20 delegates from around the state.

The newly-formed party will have a slate of candidates on the November ballott for positions as presidential electors. It also hopes to poll five per cent of the total November vote in order to gain recognition as a formal Louisiana political party.

Other new permanent officers elected included Edward Dubuisson, Opelousas, vice - chairman, and Wallace M. Taylor, Algiers, secretary-treasurer. Chandler had been serving as temporary chairman since the party was organized several weeks ago.

Quanah Parker's Body Sought By Explorer Scouts

DALLAS, Aug. 18—UP—A group of Explorer Scouts from Dallas were in Oklahoma this weekend, trying to get permission to move the remains of Cynthia Ann Parker and her famed son, Indian Chief Quanah Parker, to Texas.

The two are buried at Post Oak Mission cemetery near Cache, Okla. The Fort Sill artillery school at Lawton has announced plans to include the area of the cemetery in expanding its firing ranges.

The Explorer Scouts went to Cache Saturday to talk with relatives of the Parkers, hoping to get permission to move the remains to old Fort Parker, which has been restored near Mexia.

The Parker saga is one of the best known in the Southwest. Mrs. Parker, as a girl, was kidnaped from her home at Fort Parker in 1836 by a band of Comanches. She chose to remain among the Comanches and later married a Comanche chief, Pete Nacona. Her son, Quanah, became one of the greatest of the Comanche chiefs.

Enraged LaSalle Negro Shoots 3, Attempts Suicide

JENA, Aug. 18 (Special) — An enraged Jena Negro went on a shooting rampage Friday night, shot and killed a man and a woman, and then shot a woman and himself, according to a LaSalle Parish deputy sheriff.

Apparently angered over "girlfriend troubles," the deputy said, G. C. Cooper forced a car carrying two Negro couples to the side of the road in a section of Jena predominantly populated by Negroes.

Cooper and A. C. Washington, a passenger in the car, allegedly began a heated argument. The other man and two girls in the car drove a short distance down the road and turned around. When they came back to the spot, they found Washington lying in the road dead.

The sheriff's office said Cooper then approached the car again and fired three shots at the other boy in the car, but missed. The boy ran into the woods. Cooper then shot one of the girls, Darlene Shavers in the shoulder and the leg.

After leaving the scene of the shooting, the Negro walked about two miles through the woods to the home of a kinsman, Johnny Jackson. Cooper was said to have created a considerable disturbance at the Jackson home and then walked about 400 yards to the home of Beatrice Harris. The Harris woman had retired for the evening but came to the door when Cooper knocked. As she opened the door, Cooper shot her three times, killing her instantly.

Officials said Cooper then returned to the Jackson home. As he entered the front yard, he aimed the pistol toward the left side of his own chest and fired. Deputies said the bullet was apparently deflected by the breast bone, causing it to miss the heart.

Cooper and Darlene Shavers were taken to the Charity hospital in Pineville for treatment. No report concerning the condition of either has been issued, according to the deputy.

Negro Newsman Predicts Test Of Segregation Law

BATON ROUGE, Aug. 18—UP—A weekly Louisiana Negro newspaper said today a new law requiring college students to obtain certificates attesting to moral character will be contested in court.

The News - Leader, published here, said in an editorial entitled "may you choke on your own hate," that, Negroes may not contest immediately the law banning racially mixed athletic events.

"Negro leaders say that the law deprives us of nothing and on the other and serves as a sharp reminder that segregation is a two edged sword whose bite can be painful and costly," the editorial said.

The 1956 Legislature passed a law requiring that all college students get certificates of eligibility from their high school principals and superintendents.

State Education Budget Tagged At $176.8 Million

BATON ROUGE, Aug. 18 (AP)—Louisiana will spend a whopping 176.8 million dollars in 1956-57 for education, the Public Affairs Research Council reported today.

This amounts to 38.7 per cent of total state spending.

In a final review of the 1956 Legislature, PAR said the total included an estimated 16.1 million increase in state aid for public schools.

"Other increases bring total state funds for operating purposes this year . . . to 22.1 million above expenditures for the fiscal year 1956," PAR said, "or an increase of 15 per cent."

Other increases listed:

1. Per educable and equalization funds, up 8.6 million, or 53.3 per cent of the total increase in state aid to public schools.

2. 6.8 million for capital outlay.

3. Operating funds for colleges and universities, up 4.6 million or 15.7 per cent.

4. Trade school funds, up 1.1 million or 38.3 per cent.

The major capital outlay appropriation was five million dollars to the two state supported Negro colleges, with 3.3 million going to Southern University and 1.7 million to Grambling College.

The 1955 Legislature authorized the money to build an off campus branch of Southern University in the Lafayette area, but the project was abandoned.

PAR noted the 1956 Legislature increased the per educable, distributed to parishes on the basis of school age children, from $48.95 to $55 "though the Department of Education in its long range plan published last fall said the level for 1956-57 should be $50.25. The department said the level by 1962-63 should be $55—the amount authorized for 1956-57."

The $55 per educable was approved by the State Board of Education on recommendation of the Education Department.

Negro Injured By Dynamite May Not Lose Sight

JACKSON, Miss., Aug. 18 (AP) — Doctors treating W. P. Adams, one of the Canton men injured yesterday when dynamite in a tree stump exploded at Carthage, said today he may not lose all his vision.

"His right eye is completely gone," a surgeon said. "His left is badly damaged. We don't know the outlook for his left eye."

Adams was reported "improving otherwise and no longer in critical condition."

Adams and John L. Steen, 29, also of Canton, were injured when three sticks of dynamite blew up almost in their faces as they bent over a tree stump on the farm of Carthage Mayor W. M. Chipley yesterday.

Steen was hospitalized at Canton where attendants said he was in good condition despite powder burns on the face and neck.

Plan Big Display Of Livestock At LaSalle Fair

JENA, Aug. 18 (Special) —Prospects for "the biggest and best" livestock exhibition in the history of the LaSalle parish fair were reported this week by Bill Brasher, chairman of the livestock division of the annual exposition which will open Sept. 24 in Jena and run through Sept. 29.

"From all indications, we will be overcrowded again this year," Mr. Brasher said. "Not only will we have an overflow entry list from the quantity standpoint but we also will have an outstanding exhibition of top quality beef and dairy animals, swine and poultry."

Mr. Brasher pointed out that "the LaSalle parish fair is unique in that it was organized and established almost entirely by contributions from LaSalle parish businessmen, rather than through appropriation of state funds."

Since the fair opened five years ago, livestock interest and other farm exhibits have increased from year to year, both in quantity and quality "until today the LaSalle parish fair is recognized by agriculture authorities as being one of the outstanding parish fairs in Louisiana."

Mr. Brasher said he based his predictions of a bigger and better livestock exhibition at the fair this year on the fact that "several local stockmen have recently imported some outstanding beef animals to add to their local herds." It goes without saying, the fair official said, "that these animals are going to make an everlasting mark on the livestock industry in LaSalle parish" as the stockmen improve their herds through the addition of some of the top bloodlines in the nation.

Among those who have recently purchased breeding animals from the nation's top bloodlines are Dr. Guy Campbell "whose additions are from the finest quality, top blood that can be had"; Allen Fortson, Jr., who also has added to his herd from the same blood lines; I. N. Cooper and Sam Wilbanks "whose recent addition of steers for 4-H club work should go far in the judging at the parish fair."

Not only have the adult stockmen improved their herds "but the 4-H boys and girls of LaSalle parish will exhibit top grade dairy and beef animals, swine and poultry which are outstanding in every respect," Mr. Brasher stressed.

Sidelights On Four Candidates

Here are some sidelights concerning the four men who will slug it out between now and November for the two highest elective offices in the land—that of President and Vice President.

Former Governor Adlai Stevenson of Illinois, named for his grandfather, who served two terms in Congress and was Vice President in Grover Cleveland's second administration, was an apprentice seaman in World War I. His next military connection was assistant to Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox, beginning in 1941. In 1945 he became special assistant to Secretaries of State Stettinius and Byrnes, successively. He was a delegate to the United Nations assemblies in New York, 1946 and 1947.

President Dwight D. Eisenhower is the only native-born Texan to serve as the nation's chief executive. His forefathers were Swiss, who emigrated to America before the Revolution and the establishment of a new nation. He graduated from the United States Military Academy at West Point, and served as a tank expert in World War I, but did not go overseas. His unbroken military career included a long tour of duty in Southeast Asia, where he was on the staff of the brilliant General Douglas MacArthur; and was climaxed by his triumphant leadership of the Allied forces in Europe during World War II—the largest single command entrusted to one general during wartime in all the world's history.

Senator Estes Kefauver, a graduate of the University of Tennessee, is the tallest major presidential candidate and vice presidential nominee since the days of Abraham Lincoln. He stands six-feet three in his stocking feet. He met his true love on a "blind date." She was Nancy Patterson Piggot, and that was in 1934. They were married a year later. They have three daughters and an adopted son. She retains the graciousness and charm of her youth, and the 53-year-old lanky Tennessean, whose coonskin cap has almost exterminated the coons, undoubtedly owes much of his sensational rise in politics to this brilliant and beautiful woman, and the idyllic marriage they have enjoyed.

Senator Kefauver was the first American politician to "cash in" on television. Having served in the House of Representatives since 1939, he took a Senate seat, and soon afterward proposed a committee to investigate crime; and was named chairman of this group. The hearings were televised, and they were highly sensational; and almost overnight he became a national figure.

He struck fear into the vast American underworld; and many racketeers were caught in the web of his committee's findings.

The brilliant young Vice President Richard M. Nixon is perhaps the only man in American politics whose career was launched by a newspaper advertisement.

> In 1946, 100 Republican and Independent voters ran an advertisement in a newspaper for a Republican candidate to oppose Representative H. Jerry Voorhis, a Democratic left-winger and Fair Dealer, whose voting record and private commitments and public utterances were pink or red.
> This was in the old 12th Congressional District of California.
> The group, augmented by thousands of indignant voters from both parties, nominated Mr. Nixon. Against one of the most strongly entrenched political machines in America, he won the election by 15,000 votes.
> Two years later, Mr. Nixon was returned to Congress by a large voting majority, and in 1950 he was elected to the Senate from a state that, according to voter registration, is strongly Democratic.
> In the House, he had served on the Un-American Activities Committee, and in probing the network of sabotage and Soviet infiltration into the White House and many executive departments of government, he dug up the proof that sent the Communist spy and perjurer, Alger Hiss, to the federal penitentiary.
> For this, he incurred the implacable hatred of all left-wingers and leftist columnists and commentators, who seek to make America a Socialist or Communist State. They snipe at him every day, and they take their cues daily from the Communist Daily Worker, of New York.

The ambition to become President is natural to American youth. Well, to become President, perhaps the young man should go in for football.

President Eisenhower played halfback on his West Point team. Senator Kefauver played football on the University of Tennessee team. Dick Nixon played football on the Whittier College team, in California, while working his way through that institution.

Ike was a West Point graduate. Adlai was educated at Princeton and Harvard, and graduated from Northwestern University Law School in 1926. Dick Nixon, the second-youngest Vice President ever to assume office, received his law degree from Duke University, on a scholarship, in 1937.

> Thus we will have three lawyers and a world-famous military man in the November race for President and Vice President.

Ike married Mamie Geneva Dodd of Denver, the now-famous First Lady of the land, who has given a charming personal touch to White House hospitality, with their grandchildren toddling around the White House.

Richard Nixon married Patricia Ryan, and this couple, with their children, add to the great American tradition of domestic life at its best, as mentioned above in the case of the Kefauvers.

Adlai Stevenson is a divorcee.

Franklin Sun's Centennial Edition

The Franklin Sun of Winnsboro last week observed its 100th anniversary with a 100-page Centennial Edition carrying a wealth of information, about the past and the present of our thriving neighboring communities.

Featured on the front page was a telegram of congratulations from President Eisenhower, addressed to Mrs. Louise R. Lipp, managing publisher. Ike's message said:

"In reviewing the past one hundred years of Winnsboro (and Franklin Parish) as reflected in the pages of The Franklin Sun, you will see many stories to encourage and discourage you. But if you find The Sun has consistently upheld to public view the great issues and principles that are vital to our country's peace and security on both national and local levels, then you may be justifiably proud. No newspaper can exist one hundred years without maintaining such a moral purpose. My congratulations are yours."

In a front-page article titled 'What is Past is prologue', Mrs. Lipp pays tribute to the pioneer Lewis Zim, who founded The Sun in 1856 and published it for 24 years, through the difficult periods of civil war and reconstruction. She also gave special mention to "the colorful Captain W. P. Power, The Sun's editor and publisher from 1880 until his death in 1905."

Since 1941, The Sun has been under its present ownership and management, with Marion T. (Hawk) Lipp as the active editor and publisher until mid-1953, and Mrs. Louise R. Lipp as associate publisher for 12 years and managing publisher the past three years.

This Centennial Edition is rich in historical lore dealing with Franklin Parish and its communities, and notable early-timers who contributed to the remarkable growth of the area; while at the same time it provides extensive illustrated coverage of present-day agriculture, industry, education, religious activities and community life generally.

During the past 15 years, The Sun has won many honors and awards for leadership in the non-metropolitan newspaper field.

Its Centennial Edition is a credit to the newspaper management and employes, and to the people and business interests of Franklin and other parishes, who contributed both editorial and advertising support of the issue.

NEW YORK Confidential

She the Wealth (But Not Our Own): Just before MM married the moody ex-Red, she borrowed five bucks from her aged Sutton Place doorman because she had no money in her purse for a COD package. Then she forgot to pay the old man even when he began to hint. So now that she's gone, one of the tenants passed the hat to get the fin back, plus interest.

Wisdom of a White Way Wolf: When she says that the guy who answers the phone is only her brother — make her show his birth certificate. (But they can be faked, too.)

What's New About the New Look? There's documentary proof that "native American" Communists and their organizations (such as the Daily Worker) are tied up officially with Russia. I can prove that the Soviet Embassy is using the subscription list of the Worker and the membership roles of various "Liberal" fronts to advertise its new "cultural" magazine "U. S. S. R." published by the Russian govt., which some dream-lads in our State Dept. are permitting the Commies to circulate here on an "interchange" basis. (How come the Worker enjoys second class mailing privileges?) American Communists always deny under oath they're agents of a foreign power, so how did this embassy get their sucker lists?

Hollywood, But I Certainly Won't: if Mona Freeman has her way, designer Oleg Cassini won't be a free man long, and I wonder whatever happened to Grace Kelly . . . Jerry Lewis's birthday gift to his long-time record exploiter, Dominick Fidelibus, was to make him a film star. Seems Jerry was looking for a guy to play the part of a juve delinq in his upcoming production of "The Reluctant Delinquent" and after casting half of Hollywood, someone said, "Hey, how about Dominick? He looks the part," and so that's how the boy from Port Chester, N. Y., got int pictures . . . Whenever a press agent sends me a romance item, I figure he lifted it from some other column I hadn't read. But maybe you haven't either, so Paul Brinkman, Jeane Crain's estranged, is dating Gia Scala, and that's nice work even if it's been reported elsewhere.

Like Sunday in Philly: But not at Sherm Billingsley's Stork which is one of the few spots brightening Sabbath eves this Summer with a Ceil Chapman fashion-show and beautiful models, Fred Astaire dancers and sexy warbling by Roberta MacDonald, and everything's so gay, looks just like the old days when I was young—and that's old days for real.

Letter From La Vega (That' Dubuque in the Desert): Judy Garland' laryngiti cut down her gate at the Last Frontier. Judy is dependent over her throat and loss of weight. Her contact provided no serving or waiter on the floor during performance. When one broke the rule, he walked off the stage . . . . Most famous gambler of 'em all is the Sands' Jakie Friedman (immortalized in "USA Confidential") whose game have no limit. He's a character who reminds me of the gentlemen gambler of Mississippi steamer days . . . Singer Margaret Phelan, married and happy while her husband, Clark Coleman, run for the Assembly.

It's Not the Heat, It's the season (The Silly One): Selene Walter is filming additional scenes for a "Beau James" on the coast and relaxing with Thomas Wood Jr., a Philly textile tycoon, which is a word for anyone with the fare from Philly to Hollywood . . . . Bethe Douglas, the red - head thrush who would still be a New York model if I hadn't written about her, has Europe ga - ga and at the Emporium in Barcelona she has Navarro, the Spanish artist, go - ga and I'm go - ga, too . . . I suppose it must be so, but anyway Sonny Tufts flipped over Vikki Dugan, another N. Y. model, which is today's Sonny Tufts item . . . and Jess Barker is thinking about another Kelly. Carol, Nancy's sister . . . . and I'm thinking about Sept. 3rd.

Congressional Quarterly

GOP Congressmen Give Ike 72% Support, Democrats 48%

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19 (CQ) — Republicans in Congress outscored Democrats by a whopping 24 percent in their legislative support of President Eisenhower in 1956.

This was the key finding of Congressional Quarterly's annual analysis of Presidential Support. Basis for the study was a tabulation of 99 roll-call votes in 1956 on which the President's position at the time the vote was taken, pro or con, was a matter of public record.

The study showed that Republican Senators and Representatives, as a group, scored 72 per cent, up from the 63 per cent registered in 1955. By contrast, Democrats as a group, scored 48 per cent, down from 54 per cent in 1955.

Conversely, GOP Members voted against the President only half as often as Democrats in 1956. Opposition scores, based solely on votes cast against the President's position: Republicans — 19 per cent, down from 25 per cent in 1955; Democrats — 40 per cent, up from 36 per cent in 1955. Support and Opposition scores add to less than 100 per cent because of failures to vote.

In sum, the figures back up the Republican claim that Republicans in Congress would act more favorably on President Eisenhower's program. In 1954, Democrats argued that, on the contrary, they would support the President more than members of his own party. This year, however, Democrats are out to put their own man in the White House, and might well choose to make a campaign virtue of their opposition to much of the Eisenhower program.

What goes for the parties, however, doesn't necessarily go for individual Senators and Representatives, whose scores varied widely on both sides of the aisle. For example, of the 16 Republican Senators seeking re-election in November, eight supported the President 80 per cent or more of the time, while four did so less than 50 per cent of the time.

The four, with their Support and Opposition scores: Sens. Homer E. Capehart (R Ind.), 49 per cent Support and 25 per cent Opposition; Francis Case (R S. D.), 48 per cent and 42 per cent; Herman Welker (R. Idaho), 43 per cent and 23 per cent; and Milton R. Young (R N. D.), 35 per cent and 51 per cent. Young, who thus opposed the President more than he supported him, was second among Republicans only to his North Dakota colleague, Sen. William Langer (R), who voted against the President on 66 per cent of the test roll calls, backing him on only 32 per cent.

On the Democratic side, only two of 14 Senators seeking re-election supported the President more than half of the time — Sens. Carl Hayden (D Ariz.), 55 per cent, and Herbert H. Lehman (D N. Y.), 52 per cent. In this group, Sen Olin D. Johnston (D S. C.) won the honors for low Support (18 per cent) and high Opposition (75 per cent.)

The three Democratic Senators most prominently mentioned among Vice Presidential hopefuls scored as follows: Sens. Hubert H. Humphrey (D Minn.), 52 per cent Support and 48 per cent Opposition; Estes Kefauver (D Tenn.), 18 per cent and 25 per cent; and John F. Kennedy (D Mass.), 55 per cent and 32 per cent. Humphrey voted "yea" or "nay" on all 65 test roll calls in the Senate; Kennedy on 57 of the 65; Kefauver on only 28.

Only one Member of Congress, Rep. William A. Dawson (R Utah), scored 100 per cent in Eisenhower Support, voting with the President on each of 34 test votes in the House. Highest scoring House Democrats were Reps. Sidney R. Yates (Ill.) and Harrison A. Williams Jr. (N. J.), each with 79 per cent. In the Senate, the highest Republican score was made by Sen. Edward Martin (Pa.) with 95 per cent; the highest Democrat, Sen. Spessard L. Holland (Fla.) with 66 per cent.

GOP House Leaders Joseph W. Martin Jr. (Mass.) and Charles A. Halleck (Ind.) both scored 85 percent support. Martin scored 9 per cent Opposition, Halleck 3 per cent. Democratic Majority Leader John W. McCormack (Mass.) and Whip Carl Albert (Okla.) scored 62 and 59 per cent Support, respectively (35 and 38 per cent Opposition.)

In the Senate, Minority Leader William F. Knowland (R Calif.) scored 88 per cent (12 per cent Opposition), Whip Leverett Saltonstall (Mass.) 89 per cent (8 per cent Opposition) and GOP Policy Committee Chairman Styles Bridges, 62 per cent (15 per cent Opposition). Democratic Majority Leader Lyndon B. Johnson (Texas) scored 49 per cent (48 per cent Opposition) and Whip Earle C. Clements (Ky.) 32 per cent (54 per cent Opposition).

Although Republican support of the President increased in 1956, his position prevailed less often than in any of the three preceding years of his Administration. The President won his point on 69 of the 99 test votes, or 70 per cent of the time. A majority of Republicans, present and voting, sided with the President on 66 of the 69 victories. On 43 of the 66 votes a majority of Democrats likewise supported the President.

Of the President's 30 defeats, 23 were the work of Democrats, a majority of whom voted against the President's position while a majority of Republicans stood with him. Four of the defeats, however, were inflicted by bipartisan majorities on votes concerning social security, foreign aid and veterans' pensions.

Takes City To Task

Monroe, La.

Editor, The Morning World:

As I have been unable to obtain satisfactory answers to my questions concerning garbage collection from the city of Monroe, I thought perhaps you might be able to give me some information.

What does the city propose to do about the present garbage pick-up situation here in Monroe?

Why aren't pick-ups made at intervals that are sensibly spaced, such as Monday and Thursday or Tuesday and Friday? The present set-up is stupid to begin with.

Why doesn't the city have a system that takes care of picking up garbage more than once a week when there is a holiday in that week?

How can the city expect a healthy populace when garbage is allowed to stand from Tuesday to Tuesday or Wednesday to Wednesday?

And how does the city dare to assess you for a service when that service is not rendered. In July garbage was to have been picked up nine times — it was picked up only three times.

Is it too much to expect a garbage truck at our back doors twice a week with at least two days between pick-ups? Is decent sanitation too much to expect in a city the size of Monroe?

Thanks for anything you might be able to do to better a bad system of sanitation insofar as garbage is concerned.

MRS. E. M. FRINK.

IN WASHINGTON

Quiet Time In Frisco

SAN FRANCISCO, August 18 — San Francisco, which likes to have everything lively all the time, apparently is going to play host beginning Monday to what may be the dullest national party conclave on record.

It isn't San Francisco's fault and it isn't the Republican party's fault. It just happens to be one of those ratification affairs that come occasionally in a party's histry.

Way back in 1916 the Democratic party had one like it. The Democratic hosts gathered in St. Louis to renominate Woodrow Wilson for President and Thomas Riley Marshall for vice-president. The platform had been dictated by President Wilson in Washington and sent out by messenger. All was going according to schedule until the motion was made to re-nominate Wilson by acclamation. A delegate from the state of Ohio arose and gave his name.

He was Robert Emmet Burke. He didn't believe in such unanimity in the Democratic party and he wished to be recorded as voting against the renomination of Woodrow Wilson. Senator Ollie James of Kentucky, the permanent chairman, seemed so pleased with the break in boredom that he announced that 1091 delegates had voted as one for Wilson and that Robert Emmet Burke had voted as one against Wilson, thereby Wilson had been renominated by a vote of 1091 to 1.

There will be no Robert Emmet Burkes here when the time comes to renominate Dwight D. Eisenhower. There is a plentitude of latent opposition to the renomination of Richard M. Nixon, but Harold Stassen's unhappy fate has been a warning to them. Privately you will find men high up in the Republican party who agree that there was virtue in Stassen's effort, but they will also agree that De Montesquieu was right more than two hundred years ago when he said: "Virtue should have limits" and opposition to the party heirarchy is beyond limits.

So there is every indication that Richard M. Nixon will get the opportunity to become the fifth man in American history to serve two full terms as vice president. In modern history two Democrats — Marshall and Garner — have served two full terms as did John Adams and Daniel D. Tompkins in the early days of the Republic.

As a matter of fact if the prospective Eisenhower - Nixon ticket should be successful in November and each finished his term it could get quite a place in the history books — Eisenhower as the only Republican other than Grant to serve two full terms and Nixon as the first Republican to serve eight years as vice president.

But what history is going to record in the next four years isn't going to liven up the four days the Republicans will spend here next week. In fact they could do all they have to do in one of those days—two at the most. That, however, would not be fair to the inn keepers and various and sundry businessmen who put up the money to lure the convention here and expect some of it to be spent here.

The Republicans put on a lively show at Chicago four years ago in the close contest between General Eisenhower and the late Senator Robert A. Taft for the presidential nomination. Every delegate was a big man or woman there. Here next week the delegates, according to the program and the prospects, will be automata. The two events which promise to pump the most oxygen into the conclave are the appearances of Herbert Hoover, who left the White House twenty-three years ago, and President Eisenhower, who does not want to leave it until 1961.

In a convention that promises few thrills, some inveterate convention - attenders are harking back to some of the big moments of other days when the plans of shrewder politicians than Len Hall were over turned.

Your correspondent, himself a veteran of thirteen Democratic national conventions, eleven Republican and the Bull Moose convention of 1912 at Chicago and the LaFollette convention at Cleveland in 1924 and who will attend his twelfth Republican convention next week has no trouble singling out the biggest thrill of his convention experience and it occurred in a Republican national convention and for a lost cause.

It was in the glass - domed Coliseum in Chicago on a day in June, 1912. The credentials committee had decided every one of the contested delegations in favor of William Howard Taft and with Roosevelt having only 466 to Taft's 563, what had been a highly dramatic convention settled down and went drowsily about the routine chores it had to complete before renominating Taft.

Suddenly two men lifted a woman from the delegate section and planted her in the press box, two seats in front of me. To me at 22 and covering my first Republican national convention it meant little. But William Jennings Bryan, writing for a news syndicate; William Allen White of the Emporia Gazette and Samuel G. Blythe of the Saturday Evening Post leaped from their seats to the pine writing platforms in front of them. The old convention fire horses knew that delerium was in the air.

Holding aloft a huge torn lithograph of Roosevelt which she had unfurled the woman began screaming "We Want Teddy." On the floor Hirman Johnson of California and Herbert Hadley of Missouri got up and waved their hats and then came a scene of which no one who was there will ever lose the memory. A few of us had rushed forward to learn the woman's name. She seemed to be identifying herself to us, when suddenly the procession came on from the floor, two men lifted her on their shoulders and carried her to the platform.

Elihu Root, was presiding. He had pounded his gavel when the first outburst came, but finally retreated to the rear of the platform. The young woman, who I am sure was the most beautiful woman I ever saw in a national political convention, and who became known in convention history as "The Woman in White." was installed now in the place where Root had stood, her face red and her eyes shining in excitement, while bedlam reigned. She was a Mrs. W. A. Davis of California.

When the cheering Roosevelt men had marched for 45 minutes and the demonstration seemed ready to subside a man named Keyes, who bore a striking resemblance to Roosevelt, joined the woman in white on the stage. So close was the resemblance of Keyes to T. R., that for the moment both Roosevelt and Taft men thought the colonel had come to the convention hall to lead his own forces, and the hullabaloo started all over.

The Roosevelt frenzy among his followers carried over to 1916. Albert B. Fall, who placed Roosevelt in nomination that year, was interrupted with wild applause a half dozen times as he placed T. R. in nomination. Fall in after years fell into disgrace and went to prison. But in 1916 he was high in Republican councils and he was nominating Teddy. Hughes was nominated by that convention and Roosevelt's highest on the three ballots was 85 on the first, but the gallery then, as always, was for the man with the big stick. At the time of the next Republican convention Roosevelt was not living.

Democrats' Chances

Contrary to what the pessimists around Democratic headquarters are saying — that their candidate must "come from behind" to beat Eisenhower — actually the Democrats have two good chances in three.

It was apparent by the conduct of certain party hopefuls in Chicago that they have conceded the next four years to Mr. Eisenhower and are timing their personal ambitions to 1960.

But the odds are not that bleak.

The Republicans are pegging everything on the personal popularity of President Eisenhower.

That is their one best chance to renew the lease on the White House.

The Democrats have two chances:

One, Mr. Eisenhower's health may fail.

Two, traditional Republican over-confidence might keep GOP voters at home on election day.

President Eisenhower's much-vanted philosophy of moderation is perhaps more practical than it is inspirational.

It may please everybody without setting fire to anybody.

Eight years ago Mr. Truman's strength was in the fact that he rallied the Democrats in the ranks, breathed fresh fight into them, prodded his friends while he poured oratorical acid on his enemies.

There were few lackadaisical Democrats in 1948.

But there were many smug Republicans among the 49 per cent of America's eligible voters who didn't bother to vote. And the Republicans who stayed home elected Truman.

The situation is not parallel in 1956, but the principle is still applicable.

If President Eisenhower's friends are left uninspired by an administration of moderation and a campaign of compromise . . . .

If Republicans are left lukewarm by election day, they may stay home.

Especially if it rains.

And the pollsters would get another surprise and the people would get another Democratic administration.

There is this, though:

Even as an administration of moderation does not bring its friends to their feet cheering . . . .

So it is not easy for the opposition to stir up any great resentment against it, either.

But here the Democrats have the advantage of better discipline. Traditionally, they are a more dependable voting bloc, better organized at the precinct level.

So as we wind up one convention and I prepare to travel to San Francisco for the next one, it would appear that Democratic campaign strategists should not despair . . . .

Because if the President's health does not jeopardize Republican chances, their own tendency to relax may.

Murderer's Note Leads Police To Body Of Woman

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Aug. 18 —UP—The body of a woman was found in a field near Little Rock Saturday and police thought her murderer was a man who was killed Wednesday with a note in his pocket saying he murdered the woman and five other persons.

The woman was Minnie Mae Usery, a Negro. The sheriff, state police and Little Rock police had been looking for her since Willie Ed Bell, 30, of Pine Bluff was killed by a train near El Dorado.

In his pocket was a note addressed to Little Rock police. It said: "Go look in field down below Log Station ... will find my wife, Minnie Mae Bell. I killed her down by the big tree out in the field. We was not going to live together anymore, but I killed her because she knew I killed three men and two women, and she told me if I did not give her what she wanted she would tell all."

Police were thrown by the "Log" Station description of the murder scene, but finally realized that it could mean College Station, a small community near here. The body was found in a field underneath two big trees.

The body was so badly decomposed authorities have not been able to determine how the woman was killed.

C. O. Fink, chief of detectives, said both the Little Rock police and the county sheriff's office have several unsolved murders.

"We have no proof that this man committed any of them," Fink said, but added, "the first part of his note has proved true."

about the only real need of the city on the west bank of the river here is that of a first class hotel, one that conventions and big west side gatherings can have available when so required.

The city of West Monroe is expanding fast in the residence section as well as in a business area. Enthusiasts declare that the next census will show a 100 per cent gain in population. Monroe is not a bit jealous of West Monroe for there is plenty of opportunity for a good sized city on both sides of the river here.

In Harper's magazine, July issue, John Fischer has a humorous proposal which suggests a Foundation for some eager Texas millionaire. When his next mighty oil well comes in he suggests a peck of notions as basis if needed for further civic crusades . . . One he suggests is to buy up the ugliest building in each city, raze it and plan the ground with sycamores. And then too, he suggests a bounty to anyone who will chop down a bill board with free counsel and court costs provided to those caught in the act.

The death knell is sounded when trolley lines are fast going the way of the horseless carriage. Once regarded as a mighty step forward, today they are being abandoned and the rails torn up for use in other more important construction.

Cities can be named that have eliminated street cars, trolley style. They are Dallas, Detroit, Cleveland, Atlanta and Minneapolis. New York City which retired most surface lines in 1947 will have but one left over the Queensboro bridge, when this fall the last ones in Brooklyn are to be disbanded for good.

Efforts to bring in another oil or gas producer are now centered around the Stanolind Oil and Gas company's wildcat test in Section 5-17-3 N of Ouachita parish which is in the region of the Riser dairy. The location is seven or eight miles northeast of the Cadeville field. The test will be drilled to 10,000 feet if necessary.

A Cleveland insurance broker has volunteered to write a one million dollar policy on the life of President Eisenhower. He declares that it is with him strictly a business proposition and not for political purposes.

Here is how he sums up the situation. "We insurance people believe the president will live at least seven more years and if that be so this insurance company of ours will stand to make as much as $70,000 through premiums that will be required in the time named."

The Twin Cities present a highly commendable public spirit of interest in fellow humans. For example one from Monroe, even a person whose early raising was that of a Yankee, may now reside here and receive all attention that a native son receives.

When he gets out on the street he is greeted hearily by fellow residents who are eager to bid him a cherry "Good Morning." It is a far cry from life in a great city, especially up north. There everyone is busy about his own business and problems. He has no time to greet his fellow man, they cut no figure in his life.

Monroe and West Monroe, typical of the great southland, are composed of kindly people who do have a thoughtful interest in all others. That's why it is far more inspring to live in a city like Monroe than in a big town like New York City. We know, we have seen both and lived in both and all is in favor of real live, pulsating kindly-disposed cities like we have here on the banks of the Ouachita.

Truman Departs From Chicago In Quiet Manner

Mr. Truman's quiet departure for his home in Independence, Mo., contrasted with his clamorous reception Aug. 9 when he pulled into town as a self-styled "practical politician" and an unannounced supporter of New York Gov. Averell Harriman's presidential aspiration.

Then crowds cheered. Harriman backers and Adlai E. Stevenson, whose presidential nomination Mr. Truman later failed to block, both pushed to grab the former President's hand.

Saturday there was no fanfare. Only Harriman and a few members on his staff saw the former President off. They stood around chatting quietly until train departure time.

Mr. Truman admitted to his fellow Democrats at the closing session of the convention Friday night that his "pretty good licking" had come from "a real fighter," Stevenson.

Only a few days earlier, the ex-President had tried to blast the convention wide open by dismissing Stevenson as a weak candidate, a non-fighter, a conservative and — worst of all — a man who couldn't win.

Two Ships Graze One Another In Quebec's Harbor

QUEBEC CITY, Que., Aug. 18—The liner Homeric, air-conditioned flagship of the Home Lines, grazed the Panamanian liner Columbia Saturday while being towed to its dock in fog-shrouded Quebec harbor.

Only a few of the Homeric's 1,197 passengers were aware that a collision had occurred. No passengers were aboard the Columbia which docked Friday with 792 passengers.

As tugs nudged the Homeric into its berth near the Columbia, the bow of the Homeric raked an 80-foot scratch along the port side of the Columbia. Damage to both ships was negligible.

The home Lines said the Homeric would leave on schedule Sunday night for Europe, while the Columbia was to leave Saturday night for Europe.

Alabama Group Forms 3rd Party

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Aug. 18 (AP)—A group of segregationists today organized a new political party which proposes to divert Alabama's electoral college vote from both major parties.

The organizers announced that a slate of independent candidates already qualified with the secretary of state would represent them in the November general election.

Approximately a dozen Montgomery citizens, most of them former Democrats, established the Segregation party.

John Frederick Duggar III, a 34-year-old architect of nearby Hope Hull, was elected chairman.

Purpose of forming the party, said Duggar, is "to give Alabama voters a chance to express their feelings on segregation in a way not open to them through the Democratic or Republican parties."

Dugarr said principles to which the Segregation party subscribes are:

1. To seek to maintain segregation on the basis of the inherent power of the individual states as was originally conceived in the formation of a government by the original sovereign states.

2. Strive through federal laws to limit the power of the Supreme Court to be a judge of its own powers.

3. Endrose the 10th Amendment to the federal Constitution which declares that all powers not specifically reserved to the federal government rest with the states.

He has accepted the post of special representative of the President at NATO headquarters in Paris when his Senate term expires next Jan. 3.

George told newsmen he will make the "exploratory" trip this fall to "get the feel of conditions in the NATO area and with the view of strengthening the NATO organization."

Graduated from the United States Military Academy at West Point, N. Y., in 1946, Captain Mattox has served as an infantry officer since that time. He was stationed for two years at Fort Benning, Ga., where he attended the Basic and Advanced Infantry Officer's Course.

From 1947 to 1950, the captain was stationed in Beppu, Japan with the 19th infantry regiment. Another Killing Believed Linked To Riesel Attack

NEW YORK, Aug. 18—UP— A beer truck driver with a police record was killed Saturday in an ambush which police said might be an aftermath to the acid attack on labor columnist Victor Riesel.

Police feared the ambush slaying of Fred Mischner, 26, may have been another move by the same underworld figures who last month murdered the hoodlum who threw acid in Riesel's face, blinding him.

Mischner was shot four times by the gunman who lay in wait in the hallway of the tenement where he lived. Abraham Telvi, 21, a petty hoodlum named by the FBI as Riesel's assailant, was found sprawled in the gutter, a bullet in his head, only six blocks away, on July 28.

Later in the same day that Telvi was killed, two of his hoodlum friends, Richard Langone and James Rocereto, were found slain in a car. The double murder also took place only a few blocks from where Mischner lived. Langone and Rocereto, indicted in a $30,000 fur hijacking, had jumped bail.

Mischner's 20-year-old wife said her husband, who has been arrested for burglary and assault, left home Friday night to visit a neighborhood tavern. He was killed when he returned home at 5 a. m., by a gunman who ducked out a rear entrance.

Meanwhile, the FBI continued its investigation to learn the identity of the person who masterminded the attack on Riesel. Two ex-convicts, Gondolfo Miranti, 37, and Joseph Carlino, 43, identified as "vicious and notorious" garment district terrorists, were arrested Friday.

Acting U. S. Attorney Thomas B. Gilchrist Jr., said that Carlino paid Telvi $1,000 to hurl the acid. Miranti, he said, trailed Riesel and his secretary, Betty Nevins, to Lindy's restaurant shortly after midnight April 5, then "fingered" the columnist for Telvi who was lurking outside.

Police efforts were concentrated on finding the man who they said paid Carlino about $200 to arrange the attack. Gilchrist said the assault was an underworld attempt to stop Riesel from testifying before a federal grand jury investigating the garment and trucking industries.

The FBI said Telvi was murdered because of tell-tale scars caused when some of the sulphuric acid he hurled at Riesel splattered on his own face. Carlino and Miranti failed in one attempt to kill Telvi before the hoodlum was found shot to death, Gilchrist said.

Also arrested Friday were Leo Telvi, 26, brother of the acid thrower, who drove him to a hideout in Ohio; Norma Carlino, 35, said to have been present when Carlino and Telvi discussed the attack; and Mr. and Mrs. George Moore of Youngstown, Ohio, who allegedly provided a hideout for Telvi.

Top Election At Boys' State Set At Baton Rouge

BATON ROUGE, Aug. 18 (AP) — Nomination speeches by candidates for state offices highlighted tonight's session of boys state on the Louisiana State University campus.

Election of governor and other top state officials will take place tomorrow. Monday night the group will go to the state capital to conduct a mock session of the Legislature. The boys leave for home Tuesday.

Young Girl Drowns Near M'Comb, Miss.

MCCOMB, Miss., Aug. 18 (AP) — Pat Barnette, 10-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. T. Barnette of Percy Quinn State Park, drowned today in the Bogue Chitto River near Holmesville.

She, three sisters and two other children had gone swimming, and swift water swept the girl into deep water. Her body was recovered in seven feet of water.

The Convent of Mercy school in St. Martinville, La. was originally built to serve as an Indian trading post. Later in the 1700's it housed the "White Pelican" inn, which an early visitor described as a "house of the strangest aspect possible" architecturally but one that was "comfortable and shining with cleanness." It was here that members of the old New Orleans French Opera company visited during the summer and staged the performances of the St. Martinville opera season.

Democrats Convinced Stevenson's Chances Good To Beat Eisenhower

CHICAGO, Aug. 18 (AP)—What are Adlai E. Stevenson's chances of defeating President Eisenhower in November?

Democratic leaders convinced themselves at their national convention here that the odds are at least approaching the 50-50 level.

They base this estimate on a combination of factors and issues, some of them conflicting, but all pointing to one overriding theme of campaign discussion — Eisenhower's health and its effect on his job.

Whatever the words they employ, Democratic campaigners intend to make it clear to the voters they don't believe that at 65, with two serious illnesses behind him, Eisenhower is equipped to continue to carry on the crushing burdens of the presidency.

Stevenson framed the issue in the spotlight for millions of television viewers to see when he tossed the selection of his vice presidential running mate into the hands of the convention delegates.

Stevenson spoke of the possibility that a "higher will" might prevent a president from serving out his full term. He recalled that 7 of 34 presidents came into the highest office that way.

In effect, the Democratic presidential nominee was saying:

Look, Mr. Voter, President Eisenhower may not live out his term. If he doesn't you may be electing Richard M. Nixon to the office.

That is only one facet of the Democrats' campaign to counteract what they admit is the continuing personal popularity of a president who swept 39 states and 442 of the 531 electoral votes in 1952.

The Democratic attack is oblique. It deals with Eisenhower's reputed delegation of powers jokes about the time he spends golfing. It suggests the President is a fine man who doesn't really know what is going on.

Democratic strategists know, however, they cannot depend sufficiently on destroying Eisenhower's personal popularity. They must make some substantial gains in strength in critical fields.

The leaders agree generally that the party must:

Hold the segregationist South together while it brings back into the fold Negroes and other minority groups which may have the balance of power in pivotal Northern states.

Convince Midwestern farmers they have been ill-treated by the Eisenhower administration, that better farm prices lie ahead if a Democrat is sent to the White House.

Play the public power issue to the hilt where the issue may be the determining factor, particularly in the Northwestern states.

The convention's selection of Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee as Stevenson's running mate laid new emphasis on what the Democrats fear may be the fading issue of a Midwestern farm revolt.

The choice between a direct appeal to the big city minorities and the farmers was a hair - breath one, as shown by the close race they ran in the ballotting for a time.

Sen. John Kennedy of Massachusetts, an Irish Catholic who might have helped swing the balance of power in the big cities, lost out to the man from Tennessee who is credited with talking the farmers' language.

The strategists hope that Kefauver, will prove a much bigger drawing card in the farm areas than Sen. John J. Sparkman of Alabama did as the vice presidential nominee four years ago.

The one outstanding result of the national convention's compromise of the civil rights issue was to give Democrats some indications more substantial than mere hopes that they will carry the solid South in November.

If they can pick up the Virginia, Florida, Tennessee, Texas and Oklahoma votes taken by Eisenhower in 1952, Stevenson can operate from a respectable base of 154 electorial votes from the Southern and border states.

If he got these, the Democratic candidate would require only 112 from all other sections of the country to get the necessary electoral college majority of 266.

Stevenson would need to carry only a majority of the 13 northern states which now have Democratic governors in order to win the election. Those states have 183 electorial votes.

New York, of course, is the big prize. It has 45 electorial votes. Other states where a Democrat now occupies the governor's chair, and their electoral votes, are:

Arizona 4, Colorado 6, Connecticut 8, Maine 5, Michigan 20, Minnesota 11, Missouri 8, New Jersey 16, New Mexico 4, Ohio 25, Pennsylvania 32 and Rhode Island 4.

Eisenhower won everyone of these in 1952, although his victories were narrow in Missouri and Rhode Island. Democrats contend that a lot of political water has flowed over the dam since then and that things are much more favorable to them now.

Strangely enough, the party strategists appear to believe they have a better chance of carrying California, which has a GOP governor, than they have of winning New York. California has 32 electoral votes.

The Democratic leaders also are counting on making inroads into Republican controlled states such as Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Oregon and Washington. In this connection, they cite a net gain of 500 Democratic members in state legislatures all over the country since 1952. They have upped their number of governors by nine.

All of these signs add up hopefully, the Democrats say. They are highly confident of retaining control of both branches of Congress.

But the factor they cannot feed into the adding machines or put down on paper is Eisenhower's continued popularity. If the President proves the same kind of drawing card he did in 1952, all of their calculations will be swept away.

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower today made his fifth visit to the golf course since his operation June 9.

One of the unique and beautiful homes in New Iberia is the "Steamboat House" which was recently remodeled by James P. Cross. Fifteen graceful columns rise from its symetrically curved veranda to the top of the second story. A delicate balustrade above the columns provides an interesting note and a second-floor balcony at the front of the house harmonizes with the lower porch.

Surging Steel Production Puts New Zip In Economy

NEW YORK, Aug. 18 (AP)—Surging steel production put new zip in the nation's economy this week as most business indicators pointed higher.

Coming back strong after the July strike, the steel industry was scheduled to operate at 87.5 per cent of capacity. Industry leaders said in another two weeks it should be pushing 100.

As steel went to work, the tonic effects spread to other sectors of the economy. Freight carloadings took an 8 per cent jump. Production of soft coal, crude oil and electric power gained. In many parts of the country retail merchants reported a marked rise in consumer spending.

With business rousing itself from its summer siesta there was every indication that the economy, which in the three months ended June 30 had been barreling along at a record 408-billion-dollar-a-year clip, was poised for a new forward surge. The only question was how long the rise would last.

Preparations for the expected fall and winter upswing were apparent at several points.

Department stores, buying heavily for the Christmas rush, laid in generous supplies of apparel, luggage, jewelry, furs and toys. Prices would probably be higher than a year ago. Even so, retailers said, the coming Christmas buying binge should be a record-buster.

The auto industry, too, was up to its neck in elaborate plans for a major pitch at the Christmas shopper's dollar. The first of the new 1957 cars was scheduled for unveiling next month. Manufacturers, hoping to tempt consumer appetites with sleek low lines, smaller wheels, bigger windshields and stepped-up horsepower, looked for a repetition of the buying spree that greeted the industry's 1955 models.

With production drastically curtailed, backed-up inventories of unsold cars—down to 600,000 from last spring's record 900,000—were not expected to create any unsurmountable problem. Two potential hazards loomed: Higher price tags on the new 1957 cars, and a possible shortage of bank funds for auto installment loans.

Inflationary tendencies showed up again this week in a brand new round of price increases. Higher prices—effective now or in the weeks ahead—were reported for mattresses, pails, rubber heels and soles, beef cattle, wheat, steel scrap, industrial conveyor belts, foundry coke, nylon, beer, brooms, television sets and caustic soda.

Seattle barbers started charging $1.75 for haircuts.

While inflationary forces tugged at the economy, opposig pressures were being applied, too. Borrowers were confronted with a new rise in interest rates. Adding to the money squeeze were the huge capital requirements of private industry, now embarked on a record-breaking program of expansion, and the staggering sums needed to finance the government-backed 50-billion-dollar highway program.

At week's end there were hints that new and sharp credit-tightening moves by the Federal Reserve might be the offing. The stock market—possibly scenting some such action—dragged its feet. Finance company officials complained that the boom in consumer goods was being held down by tight credit restrictions.

With bargain - basement mortgage financing hard to get, the homebuilding lag was still very much in evidence this week. The government reported that builders poured foundations for 99,100 homes last month. That compared with 121,900 homes started in July last year. Looking ahead, F. W. Dodge Corp. said home building contracts awarded in July for future construction trailed the year-ago total by 21 per cent. The July total, 758 million dollars for the 37 states east of the Rockies, was down 8.2 per cent from June.

Natural gas pipeline companies reporting to the Federal Power Commission had a combined net profit of $237,346,951 in the 12 months ended June 30—a gain of nearly 26½ per cent over the year before. Sinclair Oil Corp. contracted to buy a 30 per cent stock interest in Texas Pacific Coal & Oil Co. Boeing Airplane Co. received contracts totaling more than 576 million dollars for B52D "Stratofortress" bombers. American Telephone & Telegraph Co. set Sept. 14 as the record date for subscription rights to its proposed offering of 5,750,000 shares of new common stock. W. W. Sebald retired as president of Armco Steel Corp. He started with Armco 50 years ago as a wagon driver.

LaSalle Wildlife Committee Plans Barbecue Sept. 4

JENA, Aug. 18 (Special) —R. L. Brown has been appointed chairman to work with the executive committee of the LaSalle parish wildlife association in mapping plans for a parishwide barbecue which has been tentatively scheduled for Thursday, Sept. 27. Complete plans for the barbecue will be presented at the next meeting of the association which has been called by A. L. McDonald, president, for Tuesday night, Sept. 24, at 7:30 o'clock at the parish courthouse in Jena.

An enthusiastic group of sportsmen attended the monthly meeting of the wildlife association in the courthouse this week and heard Dr. T. H. Gaharan, LaSalle parish representative in the state legislature, discuss the present status of the state wildlife program.

One of the 48 amendments which the people of Louisiana will vote on at the general election in November is Amendment No. 5 which calls for a repeal of the present commission form of government for the state wildlife and fisheries department and substitution of a board to be appointed by the governor.

Dr. Gaharan stated in his talk that there is a crying need for a stablized wildlife program in Louisiana "with long-term objectives."

Officials of the state wildlife federation recently went on record as opposing Amendment No. 5 and calling for a retention of the present "blue ribbon board" of commissioners as set up under an amendment approved "by better than two and a half to one" in the 1952 general election.

These officials of the state federation will be invited to be present at the Sept. 27 barbecue to further explain an outline in detail the federation's opposition to Amendment No. 5.

The LaSalle parish sportsmen also went on record as urging "full and wholehearted support" of the duck calling school which will be taught at the Goodpine elementary school beginning Thursday, Aug. 23.

Last year there was considerable interest in this school and some of the students made creditable showings at some of the state contests held throughout Louisiana for duck callers of all ages and experience.

It also was brought out at the meeting of the parish wildlife group that "the greatest need" in LaSalle parish is for all those interested in a good wildlife program to "forget factionalism and work together" for the good of the whole parish.

Group Organizes To Oppose Long's Tax Amendment

BATON ROUGE, Aug. 18—UP—A new group Saturday organized in Baton Rouge to fight proposed constitutional amendments backed by Gov. Earl Long.

Former Rep. Rolfe McCollister of East Baton Rouge said the organization was affiliated with a state - wide organization led by 34 Legislature.

McCollister said the local group calling itself the Constitutional committee, had already decided to oppose two of the 48 proposed amendments.

They are the proposal to repeal a law requiring a two-thirds majority vote of the legislature to raise taxes and a proposed constitutional convention.

McCollister said the committee will coordinate activities with Reps. George Tessier, Orleans and Jasper Smith, Caddo, two leaders in the state-wide fight against administration measures.

Student Center At LSU To Add New Additions

BATON ROUGE, Aug. 18—UP—Work will begin this fall on a $250,000 addition to the Roman Catholic student center at LSU.

The Rt. Rev. Msgr. Robert E. Tracy said the two-story annex would house a 313-seat auditorium, game room, television room and kitchen on the first floor and two lecture halls, library, lounge, chaplain's living quarters and Newman Club business office on the upper level.

A building fund drive among students, faculty and alumni will finance the project.

Past And Present

By MARIE TISDALE KENT

Citizens of Monroe are justly proud of their thriving, modern city and equally so of its romantic and historical background. This background furnished them with the culture, pride, and education that has played such a large part in their fruitful efforts to build this ever - growing city.

But in keeping pace with modern living most of us have forgotten so many of our natural sources of wealth. Every day new buildings are replacing the old landmarks of our history. Our records are lying forgotten in closed drawers, collecting dust and fast becoming the same. Our children of tomorrow will read of foreign history, American history, and state history of which we are all proud; but what about local history? Shouldn't we be just as proud of that? Then, why aren't more of us preserving its records, putting this wealth of material into print, preserving and restoring the relics of our forefathers, of which we are so justly proud? This is one of the many projects of the Ouachita Genealogical and Historical Society.

Facilities for housing our collections have already been obtained and are located at Northeast Louisiana State College. Many items of interest have been sent in both as donations and loans. Anyone interested in making a donation, either collectors items or cash, may do so by calling Mrs. Travis Tynes, phone 2-6476 or writing Museum, Box 573, Monroe, La.

We are proud to be able to add this Museum to the many things of interest in the Twin Cities and we hope to have it ready for display by next week. I would also like to pay tribute to a few of these points of interest.

The Northeast Louisiana State College has the most beautiful and well kept campus as one will find, giving a very romantic picture in its setting on one of our many beautiful natural bayous.

The civic minded people of Monroe are proud of their free swimming pool and golf course located in Forsythe Park.

The Bernstein Park located on the south side of Monroe boasts of its many animals, of which some of our children would never otherwise be able to see. It also has clean playgrounds and picnic grounds for both colored and white. The winding lanes, natural lake, and moss covered trees lend a natural grandeur to this beautiful park.

Many clean modern tourist courts and restaurants along highway 80 are very inviting for the traveler to stop in our city. Also of interest to the many tourists is one of the most beautiful streams in the south, the Ouachita river.

The McGuire Park, located in West Monroe, has been said to have the most beautiful natural "green" to be found in the south.

The Ouachita Genealogical and Historical Society hopes to find a way to let the traveler know what he can find here.

The next meeting of the Ouachita Genealogical and Historical Society will be held at the Ouachita parish court house Saturday, Sept. 22 at 2 p.m. Everyone is welcome and membership is open to anyone in Northeast Louisiana who may be interested.

By DORIS TYNES

After months of planning and preparation our museum is on its way . . . thanks to you, the people of Northeast Louisiana. We admit our beginning may be small, but what is the old saying about mighty oaks from tiny acrons growing? Enough donations and loans for our historical collection have come in this week to make it possible for us to put up our first display out at the college sometime during the coming week. By next Sunday we hope to give you a detailed account of the items thus far donated.

It must be understood that the Ouachita Genealogical and Historical Society is still a young organization and that our funds are limited. Though we would like to purchase antiques for our museum, finances just will not allow it, so we request that all items either be loaned or donated. We have had letters from those who have antiques for sale, and we make mention of it here to help you, the public, to better understand our position. Additional funds are needed for the purchase of a registration book, signs to make it easier to find the museum, and numerous other expenses which are already being encountered. To make any type donation to the museum, whether a collector's item or a gift of money, call Mrs. Tynes at 2-6476 or write Museum, Box 573, Monroe, Louisiana.

By DORIS TYNES

Few people in Ouachita parish realize what a wealth of material is available here for those doing their own genealogical research. Not only do we have some of the best kept and most readily accessible marriage and court records at the Court House, but we also have one of the most outstanding genealogical sections in the state right in our own public library.

It is surprising the number of people who feel that in order to trace your family tree one must hire a professional, completely unaware of the fact that anyone can trace his own tree by doing a little detective work and ferreting out the facts from records already in print.

The Ouachita Parish Public Library has the second largest collection of genealogical and historical materials in the state. It is the only public library in the state which has the complete census for Louisiana on microfilm dating from 1810 through 1880 . . . which are the only ones to be made available to the public.

Those interested in doing their own research in this vicinity should visit the library soon, for at the present the State DAR library is available for research. Because Miss Francis Flanders is state librarian for the DAR, this fine collection of books is housed here temporarily. We understand it will be here only one more year, so those who are genealogically minded should make use of it as much as possible during the remaining time it is here.

We are most fortunate to have these facilities at our disposal, and it is hoped that the public will make more use of them. Miss Flanders deserves a great deal of praise for the fine work she has done and is doing in the genealogical field in our parish and state.

Kohn Seeks Ban On Purchasing Of Gambling Stamps

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 18 (AP) — Aaron M. Kohn, managing director of the Metropolitan Crime Commission of New Orleans, asked again today that a city ordinance be drawn up to make possession of federal gambling stamps illegal.

The crime commission head said in a letter to city council president Glen P. Clasen the proposed law should aid in stamping out gambling.

Any individuals or corporations registering or possessing a gambling stamp for wagering or for coin-operated devices, under the proposed ordinance, would be subject to a fine and imprisonment.

Kohn said such gambling stamps "are purchased in defiance of the laws of the city and state, which prohibit gambling."

A special citizens' investigating committee in April 1954, recommended such an ordinance, Kohn said, and a later check revealed such ordinances exist in other cities.

Ike Begins Work On Talk Accepting GOP Nomination

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18 (AP)—The White House said today President Eisenhower has begun work on the speech he'll make to the Republican convention next Thursday accepting the party's presidential nomination for the second time.

James C. Hagerty, Eisenhower's press secretary, disclosed the start of work on the acceptance speech. He said he didn't know whether the President will keep at it over the weekend.

Eisenhower will fly to the convention in San Francisco next Wednesday and remain in California for four days of vacation after he addresses the GOP delegates.

Hagerty was asked today if he is sticking to his prediction that the party will renominate Vice President Nixon as Eisenhower's running mate.

"I leave that to the convention," he replied.

Newsmen sought Hagerty's views on whether his boss can beat the Democratic ticket of Adlai Stevenson and Estes Kefauver, nominated this week in Chicago.

"Certainly," he said.

Yesterday, before Kefauver was selected as Stevenson's vice presidential running mate, Hagerty replied to a similar question about Eisenhower's chances against Stevenson by saying:

"Just say I laughed and then said 'Sure.'"

Major Parties Could Fill Ticket If Nominee Dies

WASHINGTON, Aug 18 (AP)—How would a major party fill a vacancy on its national ticket if one of its nominees died or became disabled before the Nov. 6 election?

Who would become president if the winning candidate should die between the election and his inauguration next Jan. 20?

The questions have arisen partly as a result of President Eisenhower's statement he would tell the American people if a pre-election physical examination convinced him he would be unable to undertake another term.

The answer to the first question is comparatively easy, although modern methods of procedure have not been tested. The Republican and Democratic National Committees have authority from their national conventions to select a new candidate or candidates in event of death, resignation or disability before the election.

In such a situation, the national committee members from each state would cast the same number of votes as their state has in the national convention and a majority of the total votes would pick a new nominee. Republicans authorize its national committee to call another national convention if there is time. Democrats make no mention of this.

It is only in recent years that the procedure was adopted of requiring the committes to use the same vote bases as the convention in filling vacancies. The Democrats have just approved this method at their convention just closed. The GOP spelled out this method several years ago.

The Democratic manual — the party's Bible of precedents—says its national committee filled a vacancy on the ticket in 1860, but the procedure followed was not explained. In that year Benjamin Fitzpatrick of Alabama, nominated for vice president, declined the nomination and his place was filled by Herschel V. Johnson of Georgia.

The problem of who becomes president in case of a vacancy between the election and inauguration has never had to be met. The answer depends on whether the vacancy occurs before or after the presidential electors have cast their ballots. This year they will do so Dec. 17.

If the winning candidate dies after the electors have cast their votes, the 20th Amendment to the Constitution provides that the vice president-elect shall become president.

Far less certain is what happens if the winner dies between the time of the popular election in November and the balloting in the Electoral College. Nothing like this has ever happened. There's no certain answer. This is because the people do not choose a president directly. Instead they vote for presidential electors who meet in their state capitals in December to cast their votes for president and vice president.

manner to be agreed upon at the conference. The board would report to the U.N. and its activities would be reviewed by some body of the U.N.

Lloyd opposed the Soviet Union's idea of convening a larger conference to give the other Arab and Communist nations a voice in the dispute.

In explaining the hasty military measures taken by Britain after Nasser nationalized the canal July 26, Lloyd said Nasser's methods were "indicative of an attitude of mind such that anything might happen at any time."

Asserting that Britain — with 13,000 citizens now in Egypt—has never forgotten the bloody anti-British rioting in Egypt in 1952, Lloyd said "I have not the slightest doubt we were right" in speeding land, sea and air forces to the area.

"As a nation," he said, "we are very slow to anger, but when it is clear that vital interests are threatened by acts of deliberate hostility, we stand fast whatever the odds."

As the conference recessed until Monday, 14 of the 22 nations were solidly lined up behind the Western idea of international operation of the canal.

Foreign Minister Hamidul Haq Chowdry of Pakistan, however, urged the conference to accept Egypt's nationalization as an accomplished fact. Pakistan is allied to Britain militarily and is a member of the British Commonwealth of Nations.

Crowley, La. became the center of Acadia parish in 1887, but long before the Acadians had settled along the banks of the streams that lace the area and in the early days the pirates led by Jean Lafitte often found safe refuge in the lowlands.

Butler Renamed

seat the Eisenhower administration.

Butler and Finnegan immediately pledged close co-operation in the coming campaign. They said there will be "no two-headed monster such as developed in 1952" when the national committee headquarters in Washington was often at odds over strategy with Stevenson's own campaign headquarters in Springfield, Ill.

The national committee re-elected Butler at a post-convention meeting at which the main emphasis was on how to manage and finance the forthcoming campaign.

Democratic national committee Treasurer Mathew H. McCloskey of Philadelphia called for "a million-dollar-a-week" fund raising drive aimed at raising $7 million in seven weeks.

To replenish the depleted Democratic coffers, McCloskey proposed such tactics as:

1. A night of nationwide fund-raising dinners with price tags from $25 to $100 a plate and featurning Stevenson speaking over a closed television circuit.

2. The mailing of a coin card into which 10 dimes can be inserted, accompanied by a letter from Stevenson, to every registered Democrat in the United States asking for funds.

The Democratic fund - raising drive is expected to start Sept. 1. McCloskey said the national committee has set state quotas for raising $3 million—the maximum permitted under the federal election law for the national committee—and state committees and various volunteer groups are expected to raise the other $4 million.

Stevenson, who addressed the Democratic National committee meeting Saturday, referred pointedly to differences of opinions between the political pros and Stevenson's volunteers during his unsuccessful 1952 campaign. Some felt Stevenson's campaign suffered from lack of coordination between the two groups.

He told the committee he hopes this "collision" can be avoided this year.

Butler submitted his resignation as chairman of the national committee, the traditional action after each national convention. But he agreed to stay after it was refused at Stevenson's request.

He and Stevenson were understood to have discussed Butler's role in the campaign at an earlier private session.

During his talk to the committee, Stevenson warned his supporters that "we'll have apathy, we'll have complacency, and we'll have the President's popularity" to combat in the presidential campaign.

But, he added, "we'll have the issues and we'll have a vast army of workers."

Stevenson's appearance at the committee meeting wound up the hectic campaign period which led to his nomination for the presidency on the first ballot at the Democratic national convention Thursday night.

Stevenson told the national committee that, among other things, he wants to pitch the campaign on getting out the vote. He noted that only about 60 per cent of registered voters actually go to the polls and urged that the Democrats try particularly for the 40 per cent of "undelivered votes."

"Dig in and dig them out and get them to understand what is at stake for them and get them to vote in the election," Stevenson said.

W. E. WHETSTONE

Whetstone To Take Manager's Post At Telephone Co.

W. E. Whetstone, Monroe district traffic manager for Southern Bell Telephone company, will become district manager on September 1, and will head the company's commercial operations in the district, it was announced today.

Whetstone will succeed H. H. Hudson, present district manager, who is being transferred to Southern Bell's general personnel department and will attend the University of Pennsylvania in Philadelphia for the next academic year. Hudson came to Monroe in 1953.

A native of Oak Ridge, Whetstone began his telephone career in 1928 in Southern Bell's plant department in Shreveport. After holding various positions in Shreveport, he was transferred to New Orleans in the company's traffic department in 1943. He came to Monroe as district traffic manager in 1945.

Hall Denounces

late Tom Pendergast was the political boss of Kansas City.)

"I think that Democrats and independents as well as Republicans will resent this vicious attack on Mr. Eisenhower and his administration."

Hall noted neither the Democratic presidential candidate—Adlai Stevenson—nor the vice presidential candidate—Sen. Estes Kefauver—made similar references. He said Stevenson and Kefauver should ask Truman to apologize to the American people for his remarks. Or, Hall added, "perhaps he will say again he had been misquoted."

"By remaining quiet," Hall said both Stevenson and Kefauver "indirectly endorsed what Truman said." The two candidates followed Truman to the podium in Chicago last night to deliver their acceptance speeches.

Hall met with newsmen—some of them just in from Chicago where they attended last night's final session of the Democratic National Convention—in one of the preliminaries to Monday's opening of the GOP convention.

Except for final polishing, one preconvention chore was completed today—the Republican platform.

Sen. Prescott Bush of Connecticut, chairman of the Platform Committee, said the party's recommendations will reflect the philosophy of "a new Republican party — the Eisenhower philosophy."

"It will be more liberal in many respects than any previous Republican platform," Bush said.

Vice President Richard M. Nixon arrived on the convention scene during the day. He told greeters he was on hand "with only one purpose—to assure that President Eisenhower and his leadership will be continued."

But when a hotel crowd started chanting "We want Nixon" he promptly made his own drive for renomination plain by grasping his hands overhead and replying: "We'll be in there fighting."

U.S., Venezuela And Canada Can Supply Oil Needs

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18 (AP)—The United States, Venezuela and Canada could supply their own needs for oil and needs of Western Europe for some time if Suez Canal shipping were cut off, an oil association official said today.

"There is no occasion for hysteria about oil supplies for American consumers or those of Western Europe," Russell Brown, counsel of the Independent Petroleum Assn. of America (IPAA) said.

Brown said he does not believe Egypt will close Suez but that tolls may be increased.

Tolls could be more than doubled on shipments of Middle East oil, he says, without the ultimate cost of oil delivered from the Middle East increasing enough to wipe out the price advantage it has over domestic oil.

The U. S. has been receiving about 175,000 barrels of Middle East oil imports daily through the canal and now has 27 million barrels more of above-ground excess oil stocks than a year ago. This "excess," Brown said, would take care of domestic demands for more than six months without any increase in production if Middle East imports were cut off.

He said there is reserve U. S. producing capacity of about two million barrels a day that could be used if necessary.

These sources, plus oil of Canada and Venezuela, would take care of domestic and Western European needs, he asserted.

Defense Mobilizer Arthur Flemming announced the formation of a Petroleum Middle East Emergency Committee to poll resources of the domestic industry to meet oil needs of this country and Europe if Suez transportation is halted.

The committee which will operate under the secretary of the interior, is composed of men from 13 companies in foreign oil operations.

IPAA President Robert Wood of Midland has urged Flemming to consult with domestic producers on any study of U. S. petroleum supply which might be needed.

Wood told Flemming "there is now producing and reserve excess producing capacity in the U. S. in excess of total imports and far in excess of all oil shipped through the Suez Canal for the U. S."

Grains Move Up In Week's Trades

CHICAGO, Aug. 18 (AP) — Most grains moved a little higher on the Board of Trade this week with rye showing definite strength. All rye futures knocked out new seasonal peaks.

September corn and September soybeans scored gains running to more than 3 cents and the deferred futures were up for smaller gains. Oats firmed and a couple of new seasonal highs were made in that grain. Wheat marked time after last week's sharp advance.

Wheat closed the week unchanged to ⅞ higher, corn 1⅜-3½ higher, oats ⅝-1¼ higher, rye 6½-7½ higher, soybeans ½-3¼ higher and lard 15 to 25 cents a hundred pounds higher.

Stocks Pause For Week During Sluggish Trading

NEW YORK, Aug. 18 (AP)—For the second straight week the stock market edged downward this week.

To most brokers it looked like a pause, rather than a serious reversal, of the long-term bullish trend.

The Suez Canal situation lost its threatening urgency of the week before but still was a major source of uncertainty. To this was added the distraction of the Democratic convention.

The market was sluggish. The dialy average of 1,806,012 shares was the lightest since the last week of June when the steel strike threatened.

Many persons who bought stock in January now have sizeable gains of possibly 10 per cent or so. They have held their stocks beyond the six months period necessary to qualify for the lower tax rate on capital gains so they are taking their profits. This makes it harder for the market to make any concerted rise to the record highs of April.

The Associated Press average declined 90 cents on the week to $188.60.

The market on Monday showed a slow and uneventful decline. On Tuesday the market staged its only daily rise of the week. It tried valiantly to continue this advance Wednesday but late profittaking spoiled things. Thursday was a model of indecision as the pivotal issues see-sawed in brief spasms. Yesterday, the market started out as if it were going somewhere for a change, but irregularity muddied the picture late in the day.

As Suez simmered down, Gulf Oil declined but Royal Dutch gained 4⅛. Anaconda picked up 3⅛; Chrysler 1⅝; General Dynamics 4⅞; Jones & Laughlin 2; and Glen Martin 2½.

Losers included General Motors off ⅛; United Dye & Chemical 1½; Standard Oil of Indiana ⅜; AT&T ⅝; Standard Oil (NJ) ½; Studebaker 1, and Standard Oil of California ⅛.

The five most active stocks this week were Columbia Gas up ⅝ at 17⅜, Boeing up 4⅛ at 54½, Gulf Oil off 3¼ at 129⅛, U.S. Steel up ⅝ at 65⅜ and Sperry Rand off ¼ at 26⅝.

Corporate bonds drifted downward to new lows for the year. The most severe losses, however, were in government bonds which slumped for five consecutive sessions.

Cotton Futures Mixed For Week After Good Start

NEW YORK, Aug. 18 (AP)—Cotton futures prices got off to a strong start this week but turned soft in subsequent dealings and closed mixed.

Active futures contracts on the New York Cotton Exchange finished at prices which ranged from $1.10 a bale higher to 25 cents lower than at the close of the week before. All deliveries except distant October and December wound up in the plus division.

When the market was at its best, all but the nearest deliveries scored life-of-contract highs. The market's initial strength was attributed to mill price fixing, short covering and a flurry of buying inspired by unfavorable weather reports.

Later, as weather reports took a more favorable turn, the market displayed easier tendencies. Profit taking and some increase in hedging operations also helped check the earlier rise.

Another bearish influence was an unfavorable report on cotton consumption in July. The New York Cotton Exchange Service Bureau estimated that U. S. mills used 510,000 bales in the four weeks ended June 30, ant with compare with 812,000 in the five weeks ended June 30, and 2ith 565,000 bales in the comparable four-week period from July 3 to 30 last year.

If the official report on July consumption to be made next Tuesday is in line with the Service Bureau's estimate, it was pointed out, total domestic consumption for the season just concluded would come to 9,100,000 bales. As recently as last January it had been predicted domestic use would total 9,350,000 bales, exchange oficls noted.

While the apparent end-season total of 9,100,000 is smaller than had been expected, it would still compare favorably with the previous season's 8,841,000 bales.

On a daily rate basis, U. S. mills consumed cotton at the rate of 25,500 bales per day last month, vs. 32,500 bales a day in June and 28,300 in July of last year. The decline from June—21.5 per cent—compares with an average decline of 19 per cent for that period during the past five years, exchange spokesmen said.

Cotton exports for the week ending Tuesday apparently showed the effects of the Commodity Credit Corporation's cotton export program. At 61,000 bales, the estimated total compared with 21,000 the previous week and 12,000 in the year-ago week. This brought the total for the first two weeks of the new crop year to 82,000, vs. 36,000 bales at the same time a year ago.

ment of Nixon soon. But Knowlad is saying that you must decide now. However, I won't withdraw (from my position) when I have a pistol at my head."

On the other active front in this otherwise somewhat passive political rally, a drafting sub-committee came up with civil rights platform plank intended to go considerably further in promising action than did the Democrats in Chicago.

The plank was described as pledging the Republican party to carry out the Supreme Court's ruling on integration in the schools. It further promised that the party would seek congressional approval of President Eisenhower's civil rights program which lost to a threat of filibuster when Congress rushed to adjournment last month. The plank still must be approved by the resolutions committee and by the convention.

It will breeze in, however, if it pleases Mr. Eisenhower, which it evidently does. This convention is building up steam very slowly. But the objectives in view will be accomplished on schedule. Another Eisenhower - Nixon ticket will be presented to the voters next Thursday and the Republicans will adjourn.

Rep. Richard M. Simpson (R-Pa.) chairman of the Republican congressional campaign committee moved into the vice presidential controversy Saturday with a warning that to pass Nixon by would be "calamitious" for the party. He predicted an Eisenhower-Nixon ticket not only would win for itself but would regain control of Congress.

California trouble arises from Knight's ambition to be nominated in place of Nixon. The governor insists that Mr. Eisenhower has not actually asked for Nixon's renomination and that until he does, Knight will not support his candidacy.

The Californians were in caucus most of the afternoon. Knight said he had been promised the chairmanship of the state's delegation but that Knowland now was seeking to withhold it unless the governor endorsed Nixon for second place, Knight, however, is not joining Harold E. Stassen's move to dump Nixon for Gov. Christian A. Herter of Massachusetts. Stassen seems to stand almost alone here. He even lacks an alternative candidate.

Stassen opened dump - Nixon headquarters but was not drawing crowds.

Nixon arrived here Saturday and set up in the storied Mark Hopkins hotel.

brought "peace, security, progress and prosperity" to the land.

Spokesmen also said the platform would pledge that if the party is returned to power, it will pursue policies which would ensure continuance of these benefits.

Details of the platform were kept under cover until its presentation to the convention Tuesday for adoption. The committee arranged to give the documents its final okay at a meeting later today. Gov. Samuel Wilder King of Hawaii indicated one of the planks would call for statehood for Hawaii.

Sen. Everett Dirksen of Illinois, chairman of a Civil Rights subcommittee, said the Republican platform will endorse the court decision and call for its implementation—endorsements not given at Chicago.

GOES ON EXHIBIT—The first bale of cotton ginned in Ouachita parish is really "white gold" as Benton Wakefield, vice president of the Ouachita Nationa Bank, left, and Chamber Secretary Jim Williams, right, hold an impressive horse-shoe of checks that will be awarded to the cotton's grower at a special Chamber auction on next Saturday. The record bale weighed 535 pounds and was grown by J. D. Hightower. It will be on exhibit in the bank lobby this week. (Staff photo by Greg Hare.)

White Gold

Winner Chosen In First Bale Of Cotton Contest

A 535-pound bale of cotton grown by J. D. Hightower near the junction of the Ouachita -Jackson parish line was adjudged the official "first-bale-of-1956-cotton grown in Ouachita parish by the Chamber of Commerce Agricultural committee at a special meeting yesterday in the organization headquarters.

"A careful check was made on the contest this year and particular emphasis was stressed upon the weight of the bale and the location of the field," Agricultural chairman Paul Ransom said.

Chamber authorities had a special investigating committee comprised of County Agent J. J. Joyce, cotton buyer Clarence Marks and gin manager Bill Watson to authenticate the bale grown by the official winner J. D. Hightower.

Two worthy runner up bales grown by O. S. McDonald and J. H. Johnson missed the winning position by an estimated 12 hours, Chamber authorities said.

The "big" first bale ginned this year will be auctioned off at a special public ceremony on Saturday, August 25th, at 10:00 a.m. in the lobby of the Ouachita National Bank," Auction chairman Bub Calloway said.

Last year's bale grown by Mr. Odie Cummings weighed 512 lbs. and received a record 74½ cents per pound at the Chamber of Commerce auction ceremonies.

"A record group of some 21 sponsors who are contributing towards supporting the premium price of the special auction will make our price support at an all time high," Calloway said.

Contributing sponsors include: Ouachita National Bank, Central Bank, McCain Richard, Inc., Monroe "66" Oil, Ouachita Fertilizer and Chemical Co., J. C. Penney Co., Northeast La. Whsle., Oil and Gas Co., Union Oil Mill, Arcadia Cotton Oil Co., Gay Clothing Co., Clarence Marks Cotton Co., George V. Raymond and Co., Sears Roebuck and Co., Sherrouse Realty Co., Inc., Stone Cotton Co., Federal Compress and Warehouse Co., Silverstein's, E.R. Kiper Hdw., and Supply Co., Scott Truck and Tractor Co., Motor Supply Co., Inc., Tyner Petrus Company.

Each sponsor has made a financial contribution to the auction which will automatically be utilized to boost the sale price of the cotton; with the farmer receiving the full benefit.

"We have high hopes of auctioning off this bale at a record $1.00 per pound, which will represent the top price ever received for cotton in Ouachita parish in the history of the first-bale of cotton promotion", Chairman Ransom said.

The winning bale is currently on display in the lobby of the Ouachita National bank where it will remain for public inspection until next Saturday's auction.

The official auction ceremonies will be handled by Auctioneer Ike Hamilton in cooperation with the Chamber of Commerce Agricultural committee. The public is invited to join in the fun of bidding and to be on hand to witness the "record-sale" of Ouachita parish's first bale of 1956 cotton.

Hitchhikers Take Car, Wife, Tots Of Georgia Man

DUBLIN, Ga., Aug. 18 (AP)—Two hitchhikers pistol-whipped a man today, took his car and drove off with his wife and two small children, the state patrol reported.

A statewide alarm was sent out for the hitchhikers.

State troopers W. J. Davis said Irwin Smith, his wife, and their two children, Kenneth, 2, and Marilyn, 4, were driving from Savannah to Dublin to visit Smith's mother, Mrs. J. E. Smith, when the incident occurred.

Davis said this is what happened:

West of Swainsboro on U.S. 80 Smith picked up two men, one about 30 wearing a blue shirt and khaki pants, and the other about 25 and clad in tweed pants and a striped shirt.

Just before Smith reached a road leading to his mother's home about eight miles east of Dublin the hitchhikers pulled out pistols and ordered Smith to stop.

They forced Smith from the car, pistol-whipped him, turned the car around and headed back toward Swainsboro with Mrs. Smith and the two children.

Smith was found staggering along U.S. 80 by his mother and her husband who came looking for them when they failed to show up.

Officers throughout the state were alerted to watch for Smith's two-door, green 1950 Ford.

R. C. Guy Injured When Auto Rams Telephone Pole

According to City Police, Guy was traveling south on Lee when his auto hit the curb twice, finally ramming the pole on the corner at Carolina St.

They estimated damages to the auto to be approximately $500. The accident occurred around 6 p.m.

Cyprus Governor Hopeful For Pact To Halt Rebellion

NICOSIA, Cyprus, Aug. 18 (AP) — Field Marshal Sir John Harding, governor of Cyprus, said today the EOKA underground's truce offer could provide the opportunity for making a fresh start in negotiations to settle the island's future.

But indications were the British intended to test over a period of two or more weeks the sincerity of the peace declaration before making any move to return Archbishop Makarios, Greek Cypriot leader and the chief negotiator before he was exiled last March.

Harding's official spokesman accepted the EOKA proclamation of a "suspension of operations" — made in leaflets scattered throughout the island Thursday — as authentic. The general public — Britons and Cypriots alike — did so too.

British authorities announced a slight easing of security restrictions in the island's major towns.

English housewives jokingly talked of going downtown and doing some "truce shopping" in Nicosia's barbwired streets. Bars, cafes and theaters, closed time and again by curfews, were jammed once more.

Only one minor incident marred the second day of the truce. An unexploded bomb was found in a customs launch in the south coast port of Larnaca. The bomb was tossed into the sea before it could do any damage.

Addressing Agriculture Department officials, Harding said the EOKA offer could prove a turning point in the history of this British-ruled island — "an opportunity to make a fresh start."

The lesson of the EOKA rebellion to force a union of Cyprus with Greece proved, he said, that violence does not pay. It is "futile waste, utter waste," he declared.

Greek Cypriot leaders joined Bishop Anthimos, acting ethnarch of the Greek Orthodox Church and as such the leader of the island's 400,000 Greek-speaking population, in demanding the release of Makarios from his exile in the Seychelles. Makarios was banished to those Indian Ocean islands by the British because he refused to denounce the use of violence by the islanders.

Bishop Anthimos asserted last night the EOKA offer to halt the violence satisfied British conditions and it is now up to the British government to bring Makarios back to resume negotiations for a Cyprus settlement.

ally, we are very pleased with this demonstration but in politics you usually hear from your friends, not those who are against you."

The vice presidential situation figured prominently in the closing hours of the Democratic convention in Chicago this week. Presidential nominee Adlai E. Stevenson threw open the second place race, ultimately won by Sen. Estes Kefauver, and challenged the GOP to do likewise.

Nixon reaffirmed that he is for an open convention and said he hopes "that if any candidates want to run and their supporters want them, they will be placed in nomination."

California Gov. Goodwin J. Knight, who has clashed with Nixon at times, was missing from the array of GOP luminaries who crowded around the vice president at the airport.

Later, however, Nixon conferred privately with Knight and Senate Republican leader William F. Knowland of California before going with them to a caucus of the California delegation.

Builders Hope For Cut In Housing For Military

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18 (AP) — Some building interests think—and hope—that the two-billion-dollar military housing program may be curtailed under new laws passed by Congress.

But the Pentagon doesn't.

Although opening of bids on some major projects has been postponed "indefinitely" for restudy, defense officials say they expect that 150,000 houses for service families will be erected on schedule over the next three years.

Yet there are watchdog clauses in the new laws which would permit a quick scaling down of military housing plans if, as now seems probable, the strength of the armed forces is reduced next year.

Back of the legislation was strong pressure for curbing the program in areas where builders and real estate firms feared the new housing would depress rentals and damage the market for new, private construction.

Congress responded to the pressure by writing safeguards into of the session. One measure was the military construction bill, belatedly revised after President Eisenhower vetoed the first version. The other was the omnibus housing bill, which amended the Capehart housing law of 1955.

Dale Bellamah, Albuquerque, N. M., builder and chairman of the National Assn. of Home Builders, acclaimed the legislation as a "victory for private enterprise."

Bellamah cited provisions which in his view, might slow up and curtail the program. These included:

1. A waiting period of up to 180 days for each project to permit study by the Senate and House Armed Services Committees.

2. A limitation, implied by the Senate committee but not expressly stated, on the percentage of servicemen at each post for whom Capehart housing could be provided.

3. A requirement the Defense Department take over, by purchase or condemnation, all the old "Wherry Act" housing at military bases where the new Capehart housing is to be built.

A Pentagon spokesman said it was yet another provision which prompted Army engineers this month to defer the opening of bids on hundreds of houses at such installations as Ft. Bliss, Tex. and White Sands, N. M.

The reason, it was explained, is that Congress authorized the spending of up to $16,500 on each house instead of the earlier $13,500 figure.

The Army, in other words, was authorized to build bigger and better houses. In many cases it may specify a three-bedroom units instead of the sometimes inadequate two-bedroom dwellings which had been programmed under the old spending ceiling.

Both the Wherry and Capehart Acts are devices to provide rental housing at or near federal bases without putting the government directly into the home building or real estate businesses.

5 Minor Parties Name Candidates For Presidency

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18 (AP)—The Democrats were not the first to pick a 1956 presidential ticket.

Five minor parties, including New Jersey's Poor Man's party, have announced tickets and more are expected. Few of these parties qualify for the ballot in more than a handful of states. They poll a comparatively negligibile popular vote.

Minor party slatemaking for this year began as early as Sept. 6, 1955, when the Prohibition party named Dr. Enoch A. Holtwick, Greenville, Ill., retired history professor, for president, and Brig. Gen. Herbert C. Holdridge, (Ret. Sherman Oaks, Calif.,) for vice president. The party polled 72,769 votes in 1952.

The Greenback party, which started campaigning for "money reform" in 1874, picked its candidates by mail referendum. On Dec. 1, 1955, it nominated Fred C. Proehl, 75-year-old Edmonds, Wash., grocer, for president, and Edward Kirby Meador, Boston book publisher, for vice president.

Proehl, also a candidate in 1952, believes in greenbacks—lots of them—as substitutes for interest-bearing bonds used in financing such things as government power projects.

Henry Krajewski, Secaucus, N.J. tavern owner and formerly a pig farmer, who received 4,203 votes in his home state as Poor Man's party candidate for president in 1952, announced last November he is running again for the coming election. His running mate this time will be Mrs. Ann Marie Yezo, North Bergen, N.J., housewife.

The Socialist party, which passed its peak years ago, nominated last June the same ticket it put up four years ago—Darlington Hoopes, Reading, Pa., and Samuel H. Friedman, New York City. In 1952 the ticket polled 19,685 votes.

The Socialist-Labor ticket also is headed this year by its 1952 candidates—Eric Haas of New York. He was named May 7 last, along with Mrs. Georgia Cozzini, Milwaukee housewife, his running mate.

PAR Says Surplus, To Exceed Income From Tax Plans

BATON ROUGE, Aug. 18 (AP) — An independent research group today predicted surplus reveues in fiscal 1957 may produce more money than proposed new taxes would have.

New tax bills killed in the 1956 Legislature would have raised an estimated 43.8 million dollars.

But the Public Affairs Research Council said, "surpluses in the major funds would total 45.9 million dollars at the end of fiscal 1957 if no special sessions are called."

Gov. Earl Long has promised to call a special session to vote a teacher pay raise as soon as funds are available. The 1956 Legislature approved the pay raise, then provided no funds for it.

PAR said the surplus figures were "based on estimates by PAR of higher revenues than those presented to the Legislature last May in the executive budget."

At the time, PAR challenged revenue estimates of fiscal officers.

The PAR report on state finances said:

"The 45.9 million dollars would be composed of 18.1 million in the welfare fund at the June 30 close of the present fiscal year above the reserve of five million now required by law; 13.6 million in the property tax relief fund (assuming the excess over that amount would be trasferred to the state general fund), and 14.2 million in the general fund."

But the research agency noted that "extensive dedication of revenue has made it extremely difficult to determine how much money is available for use and created a situation in which requests have been made to increase taxes to finance certain programs while surpluses are accumulating in special funds receiving dedicated revenues."

PAR reviewed revenues in past years and said "state revenues have closely followed the upward trend of the state's economy for several years. On this basis, the present sources should provide ample revenues to take care of normal growth in state government operations."

Compared with other states, PAR said:

1. Louisiana's general expenditures in fiscal 1955, a total of 475.5 million dollars, were ninth largest in the nation. The state is 21st in population.

2. Per capita expenditures for 1955 were fifth highest.

3. Per capita state taxes were fourth highest in the nation and were highest in relation to per capita income, which ranked the state 38th in 1954, latest year for which comparative data was available.

4. On the basis of latest available data, combined state and local taxes are second highest in the nation in relation to per capita income.

Revised Loyalty Program Slated To Be Unveiled

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18—UP—The administration will unveil its revised loyalty-security program for government workers before the November elections, a high government official predicted Saturday.

But he said the program, sharply curbed by a recent Supreme Court decision, will follow closely the present security system limited in application by the court to workers in "sensitive" jobs.

The official, who declined use of his name, said the administration had hoped Congress would pass legislation to shore up the battered program before adjournment.

The high court cut most of the ground from under the program by ruling that Congress had intended only those civilian workers concerned with "national security" to come under the 1950 Internal Security Act.

The decision pulled most of the teeth of an executive order issued by President Eisenhower in 1953 which blanketed all of the 2.3 million federal job-holders under the program. In the original act, Congress placed only 11 vital agencies under the program.

The official conceded that any new version of the program would have to follow the court's standard of "national security" and apply only to sensitive positions. But he predicted the "improved" program would appear as an executive order well in advance of the general elections.

He said the revamped security system would attempt to provide a clearer guide to government and overhaul investigative procedures.

Mississippi Calls

year," McGowan said. "The sentiment is stronger than in 1948."

In 1948, the States Rights ticket of South Carolina Gov. J. Strom Thurmond and Mississippi Gov. Fielding Wright called Louisiana, Alabama, Mississippi and South Carolina.

Judge McGowan was unwilling yet to say who he thought the States Righters here, or in other Southern states, would offer for president and vice president.

Coleman went to Chicago endorsing Adlai Stevenson as "best friend of the South" among announced candidates for the presidential nomination. But many Mississippi party leaders did not join him in liking Stevenson.

Then, in that touchy -reconvention week when Coleman was helping write the platform, Stevenson endorsed the U. S. Supreme Court integration ruling. The howl at home over this had hardly quieted when the civil rights plank, compromise though it was, became public. Nomination of Estes Kefauver for vice president was the climatic stroke.

In Chicago, after the Tennessean's nomination, Coleman said: "I am compelled to say this puts the situation in Mississippi in grave doubt. I have nothing further to say until I confer with the leadership in Mississippi."

Coleman is not expected home for a few days.

Lt. Gov. Carroll Gartin, home from the convention, said today at Laurel, Miss.:

"I am sick over the nomination of Kefauver." He said "Mississippi will not go along" with the vice presidential nominee.

W. B. Fontaine, Jackson attorney who is chairman of the States said the mass meeting was called as the result of "a flood of telephone calls from throughout the state."

They had scheduled publication of names on their presidential electors slate for today but said "we deem it prudent to withhold the publishing of the elector list" until the mass meeting.

Petitions to qualify the slate—and carrying the names of the electors—will be circulated at the meeting. A thousand names are needed to qualify the slate for the November ballot.

The States Righters said in a statement millions of people in the nation "have reached the firm conclusion that both of the major political parties . . . are addicted to bureaucratic socialism.

"These people . . . have a right to cast their votes for honest constitutional government and we will see to it that all of like mind in Mississippi are given the opportunity to do so."

came to kill him." Dr. Lewis was not in his office and Hosey left.

The coroner said Hosey then walked 50 feet to a parking lot and fired his .22 caliber bullet through the roof of his mouth, killing himself instantly.

A verdict of suicide was returned by a coroner's jury.

The coroner did not venture an opinion on the motive except to say that Hosey had sought treatment from several doctors for what he called nervousness.

The man is survived by a wife and several children. His farm home is in the Dry Creek Community near this town, which is about 45 miles south of Jackson.

Sports Drop 3rd Straight To Oilers, 8 - 4

Paul Martin Looks 'Em Over

Bobby Manziel, onetime Monroe fight promoter and restaurant owner, and his business partner, Jack Dempsey, the ex-heavyweight fistic champ who did for boxing in his day what Babe Ruth did for baseball and Bobby Jones for golf, are busy building their mammouth sports auditorium at Tyler, Tex., and no one is following the newest venture of the Manziel-Dempsey partnership with more interest than Hugh Lennon, the Monroe automobile dealer who once dabbled with fighters as a hobby.

The $4,000,000 sports palace is a long j[illegible] om the arena Manziel used to operate here in the [illegible]920s on DeSiard street—upstairs in the building recently vacated by Penny's. The Tyler project will rival New York's Madison Square Garden, encompassing 60,000 square feet, being 200 by 300 from wall to wall, plus 70 by 40 feet, and standing severa stories above the countryside.

The big sports plant is due to be opened for business in January (about the same time we're hoping to be moving into our new newspaper location), and Manziel reports his auditorium is already booked for 22 weeks in 1957 with more bookings coming in every week. Manziel and Demsey are conducting a name contest through Tyler newspapers for their arena with a $1,000 prize to the winner.

And what kind of shows do Bobby and Jack expect to offer? They're going after championship events of all sorts to draw customers from Houston, Dallas, Fort Worth and other neighboring cities. Planned are rodeo cavalcades, polo matches, championship boxing, roller and ice skating rinks, hockey matches, wrestling, livestock shows, tennis tournaments, society horse shows, county fairs, and probably a lot of other things not even imagined yet. In addition, the building will house the publishing plant of The Game Cock, a national magazine for game chicken fanciers, and this includes Manziel.

Lennon has been a friend of the Manziel-Dempsey partnership for years, they still frequenty visit each other, and Dempsey was here twice this year to see Lennon, once in a business capacity as referee for a wrestling show put on by Gus Kallio and the other strictly for the visit.

Lennon likes to recall his first meetings with both:

"In 1926 I had two prizefighters that I was training as a hobby. They were the Sedberry brothers. Manziel, at the time, was operating an arena in El Dorado, Ark. I took one of my boys up to El Dorado to fight one of his lads by the name of Tex Lee. This said Tex Lee had floored the famed Harry Grebb, the light heavyweight champion of the world the week before. My fighter had been knocked off his feet in 32 professional fights, but Lee knocked my fighter out with one punch.

"I did not know Bobby at the time, and I asked to see what Tex Lee had in his gloves. Bobby came into the ring and he and I had a few words, but he cut the strings on the gloves to let me see Lee's wrappings. He didn't even have his hands wrapped properly. After this fight, Bobby and I became close friends.

"He moved to Monroe a short time later and was in the resturant business here, promoting on the side. He went flat broke and left Monroe with $40 and a Model A Ford. He still carries the $40 in his pocketbook. As you know today he is rated as over a multi-millionaire and is the same fine smiling man he was when he was flat broke. I have met a lot of men in my time but Mr. Manziel is one of the most courageous and congenial men I have ever met.

"I think he should write a book on his life which would be an inspiration to all young men in this country as to what a young man can do if he has the courage and will power to succeed. I think Bobby's life story illustrates the opportunities that all young men have in this great free country of ours."

Manziel, himself, was once a fine boxer in the lighter classes and it was while he was a fighter that he developed the close friendship with Dempsey—and it was Jack who put up the cash that started the Manziel-Dempsey oil partnership that has paid rich Texas dividends.

On Dempsey, Lennon said:

"I met Jack Dempsey when he was heavyweight champion of the world. We were on a train going to Shreveport. A lot of people were at the depot to see Jack arrive. He made this remark to me: 'Hugh, when I am knocked out by some young fellow there will be very few people to meet me when I'm here again.' I told him I thought he was wrong and he was wrong. With his grand personality and his kindness and love for all people he is still a great champion.

"I don't believe I have ever met a man who is thought as much of as Jack Dempsey by the old, middle-aged, and young. I can give you a little illustration of his feeling toward people. We were playing cards in a hotel room a while back. Jack became nervous. He said to me: 'Let's go down in the lobby, I want to meet some people.' After he had met 25 or 30 people and talked to them, he said: 'I'm okay now, lets go back and finish the game.'

"He really and sincerely loves all people, young and old. I have never heard him make a detrimental remark about anybody. He always has something kind to say in regards to everyone. If we had more men in this world like Bobby Manziel and Jack Dempsey it would be a different world to live in."

Right now Dempsey's foremost projects are the Tyler sports palace and a motion picture of his life. A recent remark by Jack leaves one wondering how he had time to visit Monroe twice within the year.

"I'm so busy if I were six men I couldn't do all the things people want me to do in the many enterprises I'm associated with," he said. "I'm in oil, the resturant business, chain stores, a trade school, a deoderant factory, real estate, building a Texas coliseum, making a movie of my life, and keeping refereeing, television and speaking dates."

Miller, Johnston Sock Home Runs In Losing Cause

Monroe had a shade the better bat power but let errors and bases on balls help the Lafayette Oilers to an 8-4 Evangeline League triumph here last night as the Sports dropped their 17th game in the last 18 appearances. The Oilers seek to make it four in a row against the Sports in their final scheduled appearance of the season here this afternoon at 3 o'clock at Legion Memorial Stadium.

Bill Milone hurled the victory for Lafayette with a nine-hit job that included home runs by Joe Miller and Jim Johnston. The Oilers bagged only six hits,all singles, off Jerry Neal and Bob Bonebrake but made good use of eight free passes and three Monroe errors.

Lafayette mixed a pair of hits with two errors for a couple of unearned runs in the first inning. Joe Ridge, safe on Morrie Millet's muff, was forced by Dave Wandra. Joe Seegar singled. Giles Setzer's single, that got through Keith Mitchell in left field, drove Wandra home, and Seegar scored on the error that set up Setzer at third. Setzer scored when Joe Pearson grounded out.

Miller and Johnston hit their solo homers for Monroe in the second inning, Miller's blow clearing the left field fence and Johnston's topping the right wall.

Free passes to Wandra and Setzer put Neal deeper in the hole in the third as both scored on a Pearson hit.

The Sports got one run back in their half of the third when Dolph Hintze doubled and romped home on an error, but the Oilers went for two more to finish Neal in the fourth. Bill Zimmerman singled, advanced as Bob Millard grounded out and took third on a pitch into the dirt. Patrick walked. Milone tapped a roller in front of the plate. Neal fielded the ball too late to stop Zimmerman from scoring. When Wandra's single scored Patrick, Bonebrake went to Neal's relief.

Millet singled, advanced on an error, and scored on a Hintze single for the Sports in the fifth, but free passes to Patrick and Ridge in the sixth set up Patrick for a run on Wandra's single as Lafayette rebuilt its four - run lead in the sixth, a margin they held to the finish.

Wayne Causey Homers, But Orioles Lose Twice

BALTIMORE, Aug. 18 (AP)—The New York Yankees backed up a pair of six-hitters by Tom Sturdivant and Bob Turley with their customary long-ball power to defeat the Baltimore Orioles in both ends of a Saturday day-night doubleheader, 4-1 and 6-2.

The twin victories increased New York's lead to 10 games over the second-place Cleveland Indians.

Bonus Kid Wayne Causey hit a pinch homer off Turley for one of Baltimore's second game runs. The other scored on a pair of walks, a force play and an infield hit off the glove of Hunter.

Burke Forges Ahead In Milwaukee Open

ON MAT SHOW—Judy Grable, Miami, Fla., makes her debut on a Kallio mat card here Tuesday night against Slave Girl Moolah of Johannesburg, South Africa.

Girls, State Title Scrap Feature Mat Double Main

A double main event featuring colorful women wrestlers and a state championship match head Tuesday night's mat show at Gus Kallio's Arena here.

Jack Curtis, the ex-woldr's light-heavy champ, will defend his Louisiana heavyweight crown against the challenge of Frank Hurley, heavyweight king of Australia, but the big attraction is expected to be the girls — Slave Girl Moolah of Johannesburg, South Africa; and Judy Grable, the Miami, Fla., girl who is taking long strides in the mat world.

Both matches will have time limits of an hour and 15 minutes with two falls to win, and Promoter Kallio last night said there will be no advance in usual prices for the card.

Magnificent Moolah, whose fans call her Princess of the Mat, exploits a ring regalia and style unusual for the sport and promises an unusual exhibition in her first appearance here. She claims the world's junior heavyweight championship for women.

Miss Grable, called the "barefoot contessa," works without shoes and has had a colorful career in her 20 years, including a stint as a circus aeriel act.

Braves' Crandall Has Ankle Injury Suffered In Game

CINCINNATI, Aug. 18 (AP)— The Milwaukee Braves have lost the services of their ace catcher, Del Crandall, for at least a week after a home plate injury in last night's game with Cincinnati's Redlegs.

Dr. Charles Lacks, team physician, said today Crandall will be out for a week to 10 days with a "torn lateral ligament of the right ankle."

Toby Atwell was behind the plate for Milwaukee in tonight's game with the Redlegs.

Crandall also has a badly bruised eye that was swollen shut today.

Crandall went to Christ Hospital here today for X-rays which proved negative, Dr. Lacks said.

The cathcer sustained the injuries in the eighth inning of last night's game when Redleg shortstop Roy McMillan collided with him while scoring from third.

The heads of the two players crashed on the play, and McMillan said after the game that "the difference was I still had my helmet liner in my cap and Crandall didn't." McMillan said he was a little groggy after the play.

Ed Furgol Skids Into Tie For 2nd With Bill Casper

MILWAUKEE, Aug. 18 (AP) — Steady Jackie Burke of Kiambesha Lake, N.Y., today took over sole possession of the lead at the 54-hole mark in the $35,000 Milwaukee Open Golf Tournament with a 12-under-par 198 over the rain-soaked Tripoli course.

Ed Furgol of St. Louis, who shared the top perch with Burke through the first two rounds, slipped to a tie for second place with a 200 after taking a pair of ruinous bogies on the back nine.

Burke, who like Furgol fired a course-record 63 Thursday and a 66 yesterday, paid no heed to the miserable weather and posted a 1-under-par 69 today with 17 pars and a birdie.

Furgol canned an 18 foot birdie putt on the 18th green for a 71. Casper Jr., Chula Vista, Calif. who came in with a 68.

Very much in contention with 203s, good for a fourth plane tie, were Gay Brewer Jr., 24, ex-U.S. Junior champion from Cincinnati and 26-year-old Gene Littler, Singing Hills, Calif.

Brewer emerged from the closely bunched pack with a 6-under-par 64 — best round of the day — over 6,380-yard course which plays to a par of 35-35—70. A pro for only nine months, Brewer trailed by 10 strokes after yesterday's second round.

One stroke behind the tandem of Brewer and Littler with 204s were defending champion Cary Middlecoff, Dallas, Jim Turnesa, Spring Valley, N.Y., power hitting Mike Souchak, Grossinger's, N.Y., and Canadian Open Champion Al Balding.

Flaherty Injured Seriously During Race In Illinois

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Aug. 18 (AP)—Pat Flaherty of Chicago, winner of this year's 500-mile Memorial Day classic, was critically injured today in a crackup at the Illinois State Fairgrounds.

Flaherty's car spun on the north turn of the fairgrounds track in the 28th lap of a 100-mile race and a racer driven by Jack Turner, Seattle, smashed into it.

The Chicago ace was taken to St. John's Hospital in Springfield where he was reported in critical condition with head injuries.

The race, sponsored by the U.S. Automobile Club, was won by Jimmy Bryan, Phoenix, Ariz., who finished the 100 miles in 1:07.49. Don Freeland, Inglewood, Calif., was second and Eddie Sachs, Greensboro, N.C., third.

Wynn Gets Win No. 14 As Tribe Sinks A's, 8-1

CLEVELAND, Aug. 18 (AP)—Early Wynn chalked up his 14th victory today as the Cleveland Indians defeated the Kansas City Athletics 8-1.

Wynn allowed six hits in seven innings and then was given a rest. Hank Aguirre, young lefthander who was defeated by the A's last night retired the last six batters in order.

The Indians collected only seven hits off four Kansas City pitchers, but took advantage of walks and two infield errors to score all their runs in the first five innings.

Catcher Jim Hegan led the Indian attack with a two-run homer and a double, both off Bill Herriage, third athletic pitcher.

Richardson Will Oppose Rosewall In Newport Final

NEW PORT, R. I., Aug. 18 (AP)—Little Ken Rosewall, Australia's Davis Cup ace., and Hamilton Richardson, one of America's top cuppers, blasted their way into the final of the Newport Invitation Tennis Tournament today.

Rosewall, top - seeded, ran into a surprisingly stiff opponent in Neale Fraser, one of his young countrymen, before winning out at 6-4, 6-2, 12-14, 5-7, 6-0.

Richardson turned back another of Australia's second - line internationalists, Ashley Cooper, 10-12, 6-4, 6-3, 6-3 to set up what probably will be a preview of one of the challenge round matches.

Rosewall is the first Australian singles finalist here since Frank Sedgman defeated his Aussie teammate, Ken McGregor, in 1952.

During the first two sets, Rosewall, who is assigned to show youngsters like Fraser the tricks of the trade when they are not playing in tournaments, was the complete master of the situation.

Dedicate Claims Whitney Stakes With Record Run

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N.Y., Aug 18 (AP)—Mrs. Jan Burke's Dedicate smashed a 37-year-old track record for the mile and an eighth at Saratoga today as the 4-year-old bay colt won the 29th running of the Whitney Stakes before a crowd of 22,772.

Dedicate was clocked in 1:49 4-5, shaving a fifth of a second off Sun Briar's record set in 1919.

He had a 4-length advantage over Mrs. John W. Galbreath's Summer Tan at the end. Mrs. Ethel D. Jacobs' entry of Paper Tiger and Searching was third and fourth, respectively, separated by a half length, and four and a half lengths back of Summer Tan.

Dedicate, who gave Nashua one of his toughest races in the Suburban Handicap on July 4, was the favorite at $6, $3.50 and $2.50.

The oddity about the Saratoga track record is that the jockey who rode Sun Briar in the old record, Willie Knapp, was the official timer for Dedicate's new mark. Decicate is eligible to meet Nashua in the $50,000-added Saratoga Handicap here next Saturday.

Cotton States Tests Start Friday

Dahlbender Faces Jinx Of Champion Never Repeating

By HILLER HESDORFFER

Qualifying rounds for the eighth annual Cotton States Invitation Golf Tournament at Bayou DeSiard Country Club here starts Friday and runs through August 31. Match play in all flights will run Saturday, Sept. 1, through Monday, Sept 3.

Thirty-two golfers will start the championship bracket with the first round losers forming the first flight. After these will come flights of 16 players, with the exception of the senior class for men 50 years old and over, who will have eight swingers in the flights of their group.

In the interest of good golf and to speed up tournament play it has been necessary to restrict the number of players in this year's meeting. Invitations have been mailed to every player that participated last year and to outstanding amateurs throughout the country.

Defending Champion Gene Dahlbender, Atlanta, Ga., has informed Bayou DeSiard's professional, Winnie Cole, that he will be back to defend his laurels. In his letter to Cole, Dahlbender stated that another famous personality may accompany him here for the Labor Day classic. His name: Forest Tucker, the well-known TV star plus being a good weekend golfer.

Play in the Labor Day weekend tourney should be hot and fast. The course is in fine shape, and, in all probability, par will be in for a beating. Dahlbender will have his hands full trying for his second C.S.I.T. win. Such stars as Rex Baster, Walker Cupper from Amarillo, Tex., and Tommy Cruse from the University of Houston will offer tough competition. Cruse has won eight tournaments this summer and is regarded as one of the coming youngsters in golf circles of the country.

Another jinx for Dahlbender to crack is that in the previous seven touraments no defending champion has ever repeated. Bill Jones won the initial meet in 1949 and hasn't been close since. Don January won in 1951 but had to settle for runner-up to Ben Castloo in 1952. The 1953 and '54 winners, Jake Epting and Ham Carruthers, ran out of the money in '55. In fact, the jinx seems to be working against any two-time winner.

During tournament play all matches will be 18 holes. There will be prizes for medalist, winner, runner-up, and consolation winner in all flights.

TRACK INJURY FATAL

SEATTLE, Aug. 18 (AP)—Injuries received in a horse race accident were fatal last night to Mrs. Lela Varner, 55. The Seattle woman was struck by a section of railing that broke when a horse stumbled against it two weeks ago at the Longacres track.

Needles Fails; American Derby To Swoon's Son

CHICAGO, Aug. 18 (AP)—Swoon's Son today gave the horse laugh to critics who had claimed he had too much sprinter blood to go the distance by beating Needles and six other rivals in the $159,425 American Derby at a mile and three-sixteenths on Washington Park's soggy grass course.

The E. Gay Drake colt, given a powerful ride by the master, Eddie Arcaro, who was aboard him for the first time, laid back in the pack in fourth place until half way down the back stretch. Then Arcaro booted him to third and then to second half way around the far turn and finally into the lead at the head of the stretch to beat Walmac farm's The Warrior by three-fourths of a length.

Toby B., a supplementary entry owned by Gene Van Deren and O. S. Demming, was third, a length and three-quarters behind The Warrior.

D. and H. stables Needles, the winner, striving for his fifth major victory of the year for an indisputable claim to 3-year old honors. Finished fifth under Dave Erb, five lengths off the pace.

Calumet farm's Liberty Sun, ridden by Bill Hartack, was fourth by a nose over Needles.

Ben A. Jones was sixth, Terrang seventh and Tommy's Jet last.

Swoon's Son paid $8.40, $5, and $3.80. The Warrior returned $15.40, $8.60 and Toby B. $10. A crowd of 23,418 watched the race.

Mississippi Posting Duck Hunting Dates

JACKSON, Miss., Aug. 18 (AP) — The Mississippi waterfowl shooting season will open Nov. 7 and close Jan. 15, Executive Director Rex McRaney of the State Game and Fish Commission said today.

The season, set by the commission at its meeting yesterday, is with one exception practically the same as that permitted by rules and regulations of the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service last year, McRaney said.

Under the regulations as announced by the secretary of the interior, the season on wood ducks was closed in the Mississippi Flyway.

The bag limit remains at four per day, and the shooting hours are from a half hour before sunrise to a half hour before sunset.

Neville's Tigers Depart Today For Football Camp

Coach Bill Ruple's Neville High School Tigers leave by bus this morning for their annual two-week training session at Mooringsport on Caddo lake.

The encampment will end August 31 when Neville will participate in the third annual Bossier Football Jamboree in Bossier High School stadium at 8 p.m.

Visitors day is planned for Sunday, August 26, with all parents, friends and backers of the Monroe Bengals invited to drive up to the camp to see the gridders.

The usual daily schedule will find the Tigers practicing from 8 a.m. to about 11 and again from 3:30 p.m. until about supper time. Intensive workouts are expected to be on the agenda since only about two weeks of conditioning and actual practice are left before the Tigers polish up for the West Monroe Rebels on Brown Field here September 7.

Neville encampments have been held at Biloxi, Miss.; Hot Springs, Ark., and Windywood (Pollock) for the last several years.

Players met for the first time in a regularly called session Friday when Coach Ruple gave instructions and details concerning camp in general. All game and practice equipment and uniforms were issued to those who are to attend camp.

Players scheduled to leave this morning are John Jordan, Joel Kirby, Dan Keith, Jerry Kirby, Clifford LaFrance, Bob McGough, Raymond Nelson, Steve Nichols, Ross Nolan, Sunny Odom, Travis Oliver, Robert Panzico, George Patterson, Terry Reeves, William Ragan, Jim Sparks, Marvin Smart, Charles Storey, Mickey Yerger, Robert Zeagler, Elton Upshaw James Wroten, Quentus Webb, Billy Allen, Jim Altick, Fred Brinson, Billy Burnett, Fred Campbell, Bill DePriest, Tommy Edwards, Bobby Gill, Conroy Hines, James Horton, Donald Hale, Hugh Hyman, Gene Howard, Bobby Johnson and managers Mark Womack and James McGough.

Besides Coach Ruple assistant coaches Jim Coats, Charles Brown, and Gus Patterson will be present at the camp.

MATCHED

RIESEL TALKS—Dark glasses over his blinded eyes and a patch over a forehead wound, labor columnist Victor Riesel talks to newsmen in New York. He said he had never heard of the men named by the FBI in its announced solution of the acid-throwing which blinded him last April. The FBI announced that the man who actually threw the acid into Riesel's face—Abraham Telvi—is dead and that two others connected with the crime have been arrested. (AP Wirephoto)

GOP Grateful To Truman For Campaign Ammo

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 18—UP—The Republicans are a grateful lot and would give Harry S. Truman a big hand if he'd pust call around next week.

The Republicans figure they owe Mr. Truman something for all of that campaign ammunition he consigned to them from Democratic headquarters in Chicago. There was that time he told the world from Chicago that Adlai E. Stevenson would make a trial-and-error president.

And there was that one about Stevenson not being the best qualified Democrat to occupy the White House. Mr. Truman found Mr. S a bit scant on experience, especially in the field of foreign affairs.

Mr. Truman found Stevenson so little qualified for the White House that he bet his reputation as a political strategist on Gov. Averell Harriman of New York instead. Mr. Truman lost, of course, and stands as likely to be rated the man who lost the most in the 1956 political conventions.

Mr. Truman's only opposition for that prize is Harold E. Stassen who is fronting for the stop-Nixon movement here in San Francisco. It could be a photo finish between them. However that may be, it could almost be a love affair between the Republicans and Mr. Truman. Could be, that is, if Mr. Truman would consent to be loved.

He not only barked some skin off Stevenson where it shows, he dealt likewise with Tennessee's Sen. Estes Kefauver, the Democratic vice presidential nominee. Mr. Truman didn't commit himself on much of anything before the convention except to the proposition that Kefauver would not do.

Mid-way in the primary contests between Kefauver and Stevenson, Mr. Truman said simply that Kefauver would be unacceptable as a presidential nominee. Thatunquestionably put some stumbles in the senator's path and help lead him, finally, to the decision to quit altogether the presidential contest.

But for heart attacks, ileitis and such it wouldn't make much difference, really, who got second place on either ticket. The choice usually has been a cold-blooded thing heretofore in which the presidential nominee has picked the man most likely to help the ticket, even though he can't like him and, maybe, wouldn't like to let him into his home.

It was no matter that the No. 2 man was capable of no more than a first class campaign and lacked the administrative experience of a junior clerk. If he could get the most votes, he was the ideal candidate.

That's all changed now. The Republicans will invite the voters to consider the fact that death lurks always around the corner and might make Kefauver president one day if he and his chief win in November.

Four Southern States Express Rights Dissent

MOBILE, Ala., Aug. 18 (AP) — Four southern states, which joined in opposing the pro-integration racial right plan of the Democratic Party platform, failed to get their "statement of dissent" on the official record of the convention, The Mobile Press Register says in a Sunday story from a staff reporter in Chicago.

Instead, the paper says, Gov. J. P. Coleman of Mississippi, chief instigator of the strategy to record southern opposition to the plank through a "statement of dissent" rather than a roll call of state delegates, filed the statement with the Democratic National Committee.

States which are a party to the "statement of dissent" are Alabama, Virginia, Mississippi and Georgia.

Newsmen previously had been told the statement had been officially filed with the convention chairman Sam Rayburn and had become a part of the official convention record.

It was learned today, the story says, that Circuit Judge George C. Wallace of Clayton, Ala., and Coleman personally tried to file the statement in the midst of considerable hustle and bustle on the floor Wednesday night just after the floor fight began.

The Press Register story says Rayburn refused to accept the statement on the ground the four states were "too late" in seeking to have it put on record.

Prisoner Flees Morehouse Jail

BASTROP, Aug. 18 (Special) — Morehouse Parish Sheriff's officials and the State Police were combing this area tonight for a 30-year-old escapee from the Morehouse Parish jail.

M. L. Pettis, a Bastrop man who was being held on a theft charge, was being sought in the vicinity of Bonita and Wilmot, Ark. where he was last seen this afternoon.

The escapee broke out of the Morehouse jail by forcing his way into the jailer's office, breaking a lock to do so. He knocked out a screen window and leaped to freedom around 3:40 p.m.

Sheriff E. L. Hinton said it is probable that Pettis is attempting to reach Little Rock where his wife is in a hospital.

The Sheriff's deputies and the State Police were scouting the Bonita area and also spots that Pettis has been known to frequent. Hinton said he believed the man would be apprehended by morning.

Pettis was arrested this morning by the Sheriff's Department for the theft of a shotgun.

Monroe Riding Club Schedules Barbecue

The Monroe Riding Club is sponsoring its third annual barbecue and horse show on August 26 at Bernstein Park, Clarence W. Ball, secretary of the organization, announced Saturday.

All features are open to the public. The event will begin at 10 a.m. and the barbecue is set for 12 noon.

Tickets to the affair will be available at the arena and they also may be purchased at 2504 Lee avenue or by telephoning 9488 in the afternoon.

Besides the barbecue, the schedule of features includes horse racing, barrel racing, courtship racing and calf roping.

The Monroe Riding Club, which organized three years ago with a membership of 16, now has 90 active members enrolled.

Officers of the organization include Frank Ticheli, president; Clarence W. Ball, secretary; and Raymond Sweet, treasurer.

During World War II the Intracoastal canal south of Abbeville, La. carried particularly heavy commerce because of the U-boat threat in the Gulf.

Woman Stabbed In Bar Here Yesterday

A Monroe Negro woman was reported in "fairly good condition" in the Charity last night after she was stabbed in the stomach yesterday afternoon.

City police are holding Percy Leon, 25-year-old Monroe Negro, who stabbed Dorothy Ward, according to the police. The cutting took place in the Owl Street Bar.

Police said Leon called them and reported the stabbing. They arrested him on Columbia street. The affair took place at 2:25 p. m.

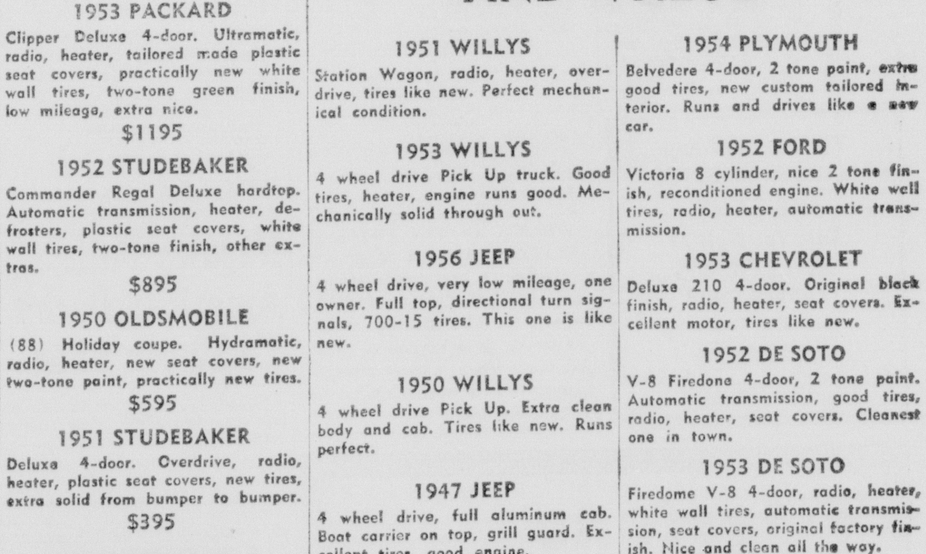
"Been Owning Fords for 35 Years—Began with Model 'T'" . . . says Mr. Phillip Snider



Mrs. Philip Snider is shown above accepting keys from Bill McCain, Sr. for the 1956 Ford which she and Mr. Snider, left, purchased last week from McCain-Richards. The first Ford purchased by Mr. Snider, who was recently promoted to District Chief in the Monroe Fire Department, was a Model "T" 35 years ago, and he's chosen Fords ever since. During that time he has test driven and received deals on many other makes of cars, but, as he puts it, "I've always felt I was better off with a Ford." The Sniders, who were McCain-Richards' first customer in their present location, reside at 320 North 5th Street in Monroe. Their new Ford is a Fairlane Fordor, complete with all the latest accessories, including air conditioning. Mrs. Snider was highly complimentary of the air conditioned comfort of their new car which was demonstrated in a trip to Vicksburg this week.—Adv.

Pankey-Schillin Wedding Holds Interest In Monroe

A wedding celebrated recently in New Orleans, of interest here, was that of Miss Ann Adele Schillin, daughter of Mrs. Aurelia Bisso Schillin and Charles Andrew Schillin, of New Orleans, and George Atkinson Pankey, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Edward Pankey, of Ruston.

The marriage was solemnized July 31, in St. Matthew Evangelical and Reform Church. The Reverend Louis Suedmeyer officiated.

The church was decorated with clusters of white stock, gladioli and chrysanthemums and tall candelabra.

Mrs. Joseph Van Vleck III, of West Hartford, Conn., cousin of the bride, was the matron of honor. The bridesmaids were Miss Joy Theriot, of New Orleans and Mrs. Francis Kalmbach, Shreveport, cousin of the bridegroom. Their dresses of orchid nylon organza and Chantilly lace were made with a fitted lace bodice with draped bateau neckline and tucked midriff. The ballerina length skirts were very full.

Frances Warner, Ralph Troy Married In Mountain Church

A prominent wedding of the late summer season was that of Miss Frances Lamoreaux Warner and Ralph Talbot Troy, which was celebrated on August 4 at the Episcopal Church of the Good Shepherd, on Lookout Mountain. Norman Syair, Jr. presented a program of organ music.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joshua Barclay Warner, of Lookout Mountain and Mr. Troy is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Matthew Troy of this city.

Wearing a gown of alencon lace and marquisette over taffeta, the bride was given in marriage by her father. Lace medalions garlanded the off shoulder neckline of the moulded bodice. The long lace sleeves ending in points at the wrists. The voluminous skirt swept into a chapel length train. Her tiered veil of illusion was held in place by a lace cap sprinkled with seed pearls. She wore a single string of pearls and carried a bouquet of orchids and stephanotis.

Miss Ruth Howell was maid of honor. The bride's two sisters, Miss Katherine Warner and Miss Joan Warner were bridesmaids. Their ballerina length dresses were of organdy with an embossed design in pink. They featured stand-away collars accentuated in the back with large bows and hemline streamers. They carried bouquets of pink carnations and ivy foliage.

Mr. Richard M. Troy was his son's best man. Groomsmen included Richard Troy, Jr., and Nat Troy, brothers of the bridegroom, Robert Long, of Thibodaux, and Porter Warner III.

Mr. and Mrs. Warner were hosts at a reception at Fairyland Club. Mrs. Warner's gown was of turquoise silk linen with which she wore a close fitting hat of biege trimmed in irridescents. The groom's mother was wearing a dress of toast colored lace over beige taffeta. She wore a matching hat of irridescent beads and an orchid corsage.

Mrs. Ruby Cloyd

Paris is coming to West Monroe this fall as Mrs. Ruby Cloyd, proprietor of the West Monroe Beauty School has just returned from an exciting visit to New York City where she studied at the Robert Fiance Hair Design Institute, hair fashion center of the world.

Budding hairdresser students enrolled in The West Monroe Beauty School will be learning all about the new Bouffant look, the empire coiffure influence, and the turned-under end effects to coordinate with the new blouson fashions and larger millinery to be seen this coming season.

Mrs. Cloyd stresses the need for a well-shaped haircut as the proper foundation for the new hair fashions, as coiffures will be wider in order to complement the new oversize millinery. Hair that is not well-moulded to the head is unruly and will be hard to control, she warns.

Along with the well-shaped haircut there will be a need for a soft body permanent to make the soft bouffant ends stay set. According to Mrs. Cloyd, frizzy tight permanent waves are a thing of the past now. The new soft body waves are considered the last word in the hairdresser's art, for they perform the true function of a permanent, which is to retain the setting, without causing the hair ends to become brittle or broken.

Hair coloring will be bigger than ever too this fall season, our hair fashion expert advises, with golden red shades more prominent than ever, as a striking foil for the new velvets and blues and greens that promise to figure so prominently on the fashion scene.

Mrs. Cloyd is making arrangements for graduates of her school to take post-graduate studies at the famous Fiance Institute. Looks like every fair lady in West Monroe will be crowned with the height of hair fashion from now on.—Adv.

MR. AND MRS. RUDOLPH HOLLIS

Hollis-Milam Vows Pledged In Afternoon

The vows of Miss Marilyn Milam, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Milam, of Camden, Ark., and Rudolph Hollis, son of Mrs. Ilene Hollis Faulk and the late Mr. Homer Hollis of Spearsville, was solemnized Sunday, July 29 at 4:00 p. m. at the Washington Street Church of Christ, Camden.

Vaughan D. Shofner officiated before a pyramid of burning white tapers interspersed with greenery, and floor baskets of white gladioli.

"Because" and "I Love You Truly" were sung by the Harding College A Capella Chorus.

The bride entering on the arm of her father, wore a gown of embroidered nylon organdy over slipper satin, fashioned with a round neckline. The fitted bodice fastened down the back to a V-waist with tiny covered buttons. The sleeves, forming a petal point over the hands were fastened at the wrist with the covered buttons. The full gathered skirt ended in a chapel train. Her finger - tip tulle veil fell from a starched lace pillbox.

She carried a satin - covered Bible outlined with seed pearls and centered with a white orchid and stephanotis tied with lovers' knots of white satin ribbon.

Miss Barbara Robinson and Miss Ann Milam, sister of the bride, served as the bride's attendants. They wore identical dresses of blue and yellow dotted nylon organdy over taffeta fashioned with full waltz length skirts on an empire waist with draped bodice. Miss Robinson wore blue and Miss Milam's dress was yellow. They wore white lace picture hats and carried fans of white satin and lace interlaced with feathered yellow carnations tied with streamers of yellow satin.

Chester Baron, Spearsville, uncle of the bridegroom, served as best man. Osburn Perdue, Camden, was groomsman. The candles were lighted by the ushers, James Hawley, of Hope and Bob Harrell, of Camden.

The bride's mother chose for her daughter's wedding, a light blue cotton lace dress and wore black accessories. She pinned a corsage of white carnations at her shoulder. The mother of the bridegroom wore navy blue crepe with white accessories and her corsage was white carnations.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the home of the bride's parents. Miss Annice White, Mrs. Jack Barnes of Magnolia, Miss Joyce Darden, and Miss Ann McManus served the guests. Little Miss Nancy Baron of Spearsville, cousin of the groom, had charge of the bride's book. The serving table was covered with ivory lace over pink cotton satin and the bride's bouquet and the fans of the bridesmaids were used for table decoration. Baskets of white gladioli were used at vantage points throughout the living room and a crystal bowl of soft pink zinnias were on the piano.

The couple left immediately after the reception and Mrs. Hollis was wearing a brown polished cotton sheath with beige lace duster. She wore beige accessories with touches of brown and pinned the orchid from her bridal bouquet at her shoulder. After a trip through interesting points in the south, they will be at home in Key West, Fla., where the groom is stationed at Boca Chica Naval Air Base.

Out - of - town guests for the occasion included Mrs. Carrol Futch, Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Saunders, Mr. and Mrs. Chester Baron, Nancy and Jerry of Spearsville; Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Hollis, Minden; Mrs. Dalton Hollis, Shreveport; Mrs. Ellen Hollis, Bernice; Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Copeland, Milton, Ruth Ann and Carol, Ft. Miss Murphy Becomes Bride Of Mr. Windham

In a beautiful summer wedding at 4:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon, August 5, at the First Methodist Church of Tallulah Miss Patsy Murphy became the bride of William M. Windham.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Thomas D. Murphy and the late Mr. Murphy of Tallulah, and Mr. Windham's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Wilburn C. Windham of Tallulah.

Officiating at the double - ring ceremony was the Rev. W. F. Mayo.

Greenery and waxed magnolia leaves were used effectively in the altar decorations. The couple exchanged their nuptial vows beneath an archway entwined with magnolia leaves and spirea. On either side were floor length candelabra holding myriad lighted cathedral tapers.

Organ selections were presented by Miss Beth Brown, who also accompanied the soloists, Miss Jane Flory of Bossier City who sang "Because" and Mr. Gene Wilson, minister of music at the First Baptist church of Tallulah, who sang "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Thomas D. Murphy, was wearing a wedding gown of taffeta with tulle, lace and net fashioned of tapered lace sleeves and matching Queen Anne collar. It was complemented by a strand of heirloom pearls, a gift from the bridegroom. The taffeta skirt was exquisitely draped in tiers of nylon net and tulle which ended in a short sweep. She carried a colonial bouquet centered with a white orchid and surrounded by lace leaves and tuberoses with matching streamers and garlands of tuberoses.

Miss Jerry Anne Byram of Tallulah, niece of the bride, was her matron of honor. She was gowned in crystaline blue over matching taffeta. The bridesmaids were Mrs. William Christian and Mrs. Boone Halbach also of Tallulah, whose dresses were fashioned along lines similar to the matron of honor's gown and were in lighter shades of blue. The three chose hats made of matching material, trimmed in pink carnations, and they wore shoes which blended with their blue dresses. Their colonial bouquets were of pink carnations and tuberoses encircled with tulle ruffles.

Serving the bridegroom as best man was his father, Mr. Wilburn C. Windham.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Murphy was wearing a pink lace dress which featured an attractive neckline encircled with seed pearls. She used navy accessories and a corsage of blue carnations. The bridegroom's mother chose blue lace over taffeta and white accessories. She wore a white caration corsage.

A reception in the parlors of the American Legion Home immediately followed the ceremony.

Receiving with the bride and groom were Mrs. Thomas D. Murphy, Mrs. Wilburn C. Windham, Miss Jerry Byram, Mrs. Boone Halbach and Mrs. William Christian.

The bride's table was covered with an imported linen and lace cloth and caught at intervals with sprigs of fern and valley lilies. It was centered with an open family Bible embedded in fern and circled with greenery and valley lilies. The arrangement was flanked by silver candelabra holding white lighted tapers which cast a soft glow to add to the effectiveness.

At one end of the table was a three - tiered wedding confection surmounted with bride and groom figurines, and at the other end was a crystal bowl of fruit punch centered with a frozen bouquet of gardenias.

Alternating at the punch service were Misses Patsy Sullivan of Alexandria, Sue Baggarly of Hodge and Miss Rose Farrar of Bernice. Tea girls were cousins of the groom, Misses Deanna Blanchard, Dona Nettles and Mary Eve Beckett.

The bridal couple chose the Smokey mountains for their honeymoon. For travel the bride wore a two - piece soft pink shantung tailleur with matching hat and she chose a pearlized bag and shoes, pink gloves and the white orchid from her wedding bouquet.

The couple will make their home in Monroe, where Mr. Windham will continue his studies at Northeast Louisiana State College.

Mrs. Windham received the bachelor's degree at Northwestern State College, Natchitoches, where she completed requirements in the school of nursing.

BOX COATS NEW

Casual box coats have a new and exciting look. Pockets are plentiful but big patch pockets, while a boon to the tall figure, should be avoided by the short. From narrow shoulder to hemline create a diagonal sweep for a taller look.

COATS NOT BULKY

Calf and mole make full length coats which are not too bulky for any size female form. Both are a far cry from the way these moderate priced furs were fashioned years ago. Today there's an individual look in the straight silhouette.

If you wax your floors on a humid day, remember that it may take longer than usual for them to dry.

Soil Preparation For Fall Planting

Do you want a good fall garden? If you do, you must follow suggested recommendations. First, you should clean off all the green vegetation in preparing the ridges for the fall garden, because the heat resulting from this will be so great that the seed sown will not germinate. The ground can get so warm from decaying green matter that seed will never come up. The seed will be scalded during the germination process.

There are thousands of gardeners and commercial growers who have furrow irrigation available in their back yards and on their truck farm. Such gardeners can plant any fall crop because they can always supplement the rainfall with a continuous supply of moisture. There is plenty of moisture at present, but you will probably need additional moisture the remainder of this month and September.

Prepare the soil at this time and plant: cabbage seed, from now until August 15. Louisiana Allyear, Wisconsin All - Season and Glory varieties should be used. Plant collards, the Louisiana Sweet Variety is recommended. Cauliflower based on experimental results, Snowball A and Snowdrift are recommended as the best varieties in the early maturing group. In the medium early group Snowball M and Stella Nova are recommended as the two leading varieties. Plant broccoli, Freezer's Green and Italian Green sprouting; plant mustard and Swiss chard, also.

A little later this month, you can add to your plantings such things as shallots started from dry sets as well as pole snap beans and the small Carolina (climbing) butter beans. Plant bush snap beans two or three weeks later. Most of our root vegetables such as beets, carrots and turnips can be planted in late August.

The insects that will damage your fall vegetables, if you don't keep after them are aphids, or plant lice. Control them by dusting or spraying with rotenone or with nicotine sulphate. Insects that cause much damage in the fall gardens include the green stink bug, the Harlequin bug and brown squash bug. Twenty per cent Sabadilla dust will control this group of insects.

Farm and Homemakers Opportunities

Only 15 women from Ouachita attended this wonderful course at L. S. U. last week — why so few? Yes, this course comes in the very hottest season of the year because this is the time those attending the Short Course several years ago voted it to be the time farmers and housewives could attend it. Too, the course must be given when L. S. U. facilities are available — that is regular students are away between semesters.

This course is valuable to the farmers and homemikers. It is staffed by the very best informed persons. Too, it is free to those who wish to improve themselves, their homes, and farms. The banker or any other professional person who takes such a course in his line of work at L. S. U. must pay to enroll, pay for lodging, etc.

L. S. U. and Estension have gone all out to make agriculture and its people a well informed group — just as informed as any other professional group.

Farmers and homemakers ask yourself the question, "What have I done with this opportunity"? If this is not the best time for you to take advantage of this course, let your agents know your choice of time. Let's not waste this opportunity, but let's take advantage of it and be up-to-date in our methods and in our information.

Polio Reports

Have you been reading the reports on polio cases? Have you observed the cases reported with polio that had not been vaccinated? Then wouldn't it be wise for us as parents to see that the members of our family are vaccinated as recommended by doctors?

Hush Puppies

We have received many calls for this recipe and we do not have the bulletin to offer so will give it to you in this column. 2 cups enriched corn meal; 1 tablespoon enriched flour; 1 teaspoon soda; 1 teaspoon baking powder; 1 teaspoon salt; 1 whole egg; 6 tablespoons chopped onion and 2 cups buttermilk. Mix all dry ingredients, add chopped onion, then milk and egg. Drop by spoonfuls into deep hot grease where fish are cooking. When done they will float. Put on brown paper to drain. Red Horse bread is made quite similarly — the onion may be omitted. If eggs are plentiful, the milk and the baking powder are left out and enough eggs are used to make a batter. No fish fry is complete without hush puppies or red horse bread.

The top of an empty frozen orange juice can makes a good cutter for biscuits.

Neville Band Starts Season Monday Morning

Neville's High School band begins practice at 10 a.m. Monday in preparation for the 1956 football season, according to director, John Davis.

All students interested in trying out for the musical unit should be present at this first meeting and take their instruments and, if possible, sheet music, the director said.

The University of Michigan system of marching will be employed this year which deviates from the conventional military system. The new system is expected to give the Nevillites a really "new look."

Intensive training will be required during the next two weeks or so in order to be proficient by the time the first football game rolls around — the West Monroe contest, — September 7, Davis said.

Six very sigificant musical instruments will be added to the band's group and were purchased this summer by the city school. They are: a base clarinet and alto clarinet, oboe, baritone saxaphone and two double French horns. These are expected to add greatly to the performance of the NHS musical aggrigation, according to Davis.

Several eighth graders have been invited to tryout for the marching band, and all other classmen are also invited to join these novice.

It is anticipated that more than 85 will be in the regular marching unit. After the football season ends the NHS musicians act as a concert band with the best members selected for this choice playing group, Davis stated. In addition to being bandmaster of the Neville group, Davis will be president of the Louisiana Music Educators association. He was accorded this honor at the Music Educators' convention last June.

Davis also attended the marching band clinic at Lafayette the first part of June where the "new step" was introduced to Louisiana bandmasters by Jack Lee, formerly of the University of Michigan.

Jaycees Seek Free Mail Delivery In Lake Providence

LAKE PROVIDENCE, Aug. 18—(Special) — The Lake Providence Junior Chamber of Commerce, spearheaded by President L. E. Townsend, Jr., is at work on a project to secure free mail delivery for the town of Lake Providence.

A check into the requirements to be met before such service can be forthcoming has been made and Townsend appeared before the town council at their last regular meeting to work out plans with the city's governing body, for the remaining obstacles to be removed.

Permanent street markers are required by the government, and the board of aldermen agreed to place such markers in the appropriate places, and have already begun the initial planning for same. Houses numbers being another prerequisite, the J. C.'s immediately began a survey to determine the total number of dwellings to be included in the proposed mail service, and are in the process of collecting a small fee from each householder to defray the cost of the numbers.

Long Heads Home, Satisfied With Convention Work

CHICAGO — UP — Gov. Earl Long today packed his suitcases for the trip home to Louisiana apparently satisfied with the selection of Adlai Stevenson and Sen. Estes Kefauver as the Democratic candidates in the November presidential race.

"I am happy to see the convention wind up as it did," Gov. Long said.

Stevenson was Long's choice all along for the Democratic presidential post, and the governor came out for Kefauver for vice-president in the Louisiana delegation's caucus this week. However, Louisiana's delegation voted for Sen. John Kennedy of Massachusetts.

"Stevenson has had more experience," Long said in comparing him with his other choice, Lyndon Johnson of Texas. "He's one of the most frank and honest men I have ever known and one of the best informed on all issues."

Completion Of Ag. Station Set For Fall

ST. JOSEPH, Aug. 19 (Special) —Staff members of the Northeast La. Experiement Station will soon be able to occupy their new office building. The cost of the building, to be completed sometime in early fall, is estimated at $15,000.

There is to be a private office for each staff member, making a total of five offices. The plans also call for a large assembly room to be used for conferences and staff meetings.

According to Mr. John Hendrix, superintendent of the station, the building is being constructed of light weight aggregate concrete blocks, and will have steel casement windows and asphalt tile flooring. The inside walls are to be sheetrock with Textone finish. The heating system is of the automatic blender type.

The new building is located farther back from the highway than the present office, thus placing it beneath the trees and adding to the attractiveness of the station. This will afford more adequate parking space than is now available. The office building now in use will be moved and utilized as additional storage space.

Next time you broil tomatoes, sprinkle the cut halves with sugar as well as salt and pepper. Extra good flavor!

Pre-Convention Odds And Ends From 'Franciso'

SAN FRANCISCO (UP) — Conventions have a way of confusing people until they're not quite sure where they are. That's apparently what happened to Sen. Andrew F. Schoeppel (R-Kan.) today.

Several times during a press conference at the Fairmount hotel he made reference to what was happening "out there in California."

One unidentified delegate from New York won recognition today as an outstanding smoke-producer for the Republicans' smoke-filled rooms. Emerging from a session of a GOP platform subcommittee, he was heard to remark: "I don't know how long we took. I just know I went through 18 cigars in there."

Probably the No. 1 host to visiting Republicans in San Francisco is Ben Swig, owner of the famed Fairmont hotel where the GOP has its downtown headquarters. Swig is one of the city's leading Democrats and was in Chicago as a delegate to the Democratic national convention.

Dolly, a pint-sized elephant who is almost small enough to fit on a campaign button, arrived here Friday night from Los Angeles to become the "theme girl" of the Republican national convention.

Dolly is 42 inches tall and weighs a mere 385 pounds.

Murray Chotiner, vice president Richard M. Nixon's campaign manager in 1952, may have set a record Friday for the time it takes to say "hello." Chotiner visited former Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York at his Sheraton Palace suite and emerged after an hour and a half to tell reporters, "I just dropped in to say 'hello.'"

Big Top Opens Again

STROUDSBURG, Pa. (UP)—The King Brothers circus opened its new big top here today, hoping to keep the spectacular show alive and profitable.

The circus had been stranded since last month when mechanical and financial troubles delayed its route from New England to its Macon, Ga., headquarters.

GOING TO AFRICA—Louis Rolleigh, Jr., son of Mrs. Louis Rolleigh, Sr., of West Monroe, is being transfered to Banghazi, Libya, North Africa, by the Socony Mobil Oil Company. Rolleigh has been in the exploration department with the company in Venezuela since 1951, and as party chief for the past two years. He will leave the Twin Cities, where he is visiting his mother and friends, later this week and will fly to North Africa.

East Carroll Land Leased For Wildlife Reserve

LAKE PROVIDENCE, Aug. 19—(Special) — A ten year lease on 3,121 acres near Sondheimer, has been signed between the State of Louisiana, acting through the Department of Wildlife and Fisheries, and the East Carroll Parish school board (640 acres) and H. L. Hunt of Texas (2,481.69 acres), announces J. W. "Red" Gilbert, president of the Carroll Sportsman's club.

The land will be used for the purpose of carrying out a project sponsored by the Sportsman's club to improve the duck shooting and give more water to the wild life of the area.

The area includes Valentine plantation, one of the school board's 16th sections of land, and East Sondheimer Company property, all of which are adjacent.

Plans are to put a dam across the entrance into Fisher's Creek, from Broad Lake, thereby raising the level of the lake so as to improve fishing and wild life habitat. There are plenty of deer and bear in the area, and it is hoped that it can be restocked with wild turkeys.

A part of the lease agreement gives authority to the state to erect signs to adequately designate boundaries of the land, and further provides that the hunting and fishing rights shall not be restricted to any minority group to the exclusion of the general public.

MY ANSWER by Billy Graham

QUESTION: Is there any explanation for the wave of juvenile delinquency which is plaguing our nation? H. L. K.

ANSWER: There are probably a number of reasons. Such phenomena do not just happen, there is an underlying cause. One of these is adult delinquency. The present generation of teenagers has seen much in the example of some of their elders which has done untold harm to their concept of moral standards and values. For this, adults are responsible. Also, we live in a time when crime, violence and vice are portrayed to young people in the early and formative period of their lives so that they no longer can distinguish between right and wrong. To them, violence is a natural expression of life and that which they experience in their entertainment. I believe that more than any other single source we can point to today's avenues of "entertainment" as the chief cause for juvenile delinquency. The cure must begin where the disease does — in the home, in the ideals and example which adults set before children, and in a revision of the standards of entertainment. If those who control these channels do not change them, then Christian parents must rise up and take a strong and effective stand to see that the minds of their children are not filled with evil concepts. "Train up a child in the way he should go", is still God's way.

Save Leaves, Pine Straw For Gardens

By the time the mowing stops, the leaves start falling. However, we're fortunate to have leaves and pine straw in our gardens, because it is just pure gold. The straw and oak leaves can be used as a mulch and other rakings can go in the compost pile. Why not get that pen built now — even just a small one. You can use wire or unfinished lumber. It can be any size but should be three feet high. You can put leaves, weeds, tops from perennials or annuals and vegetable trimmings from the kitchen in the compost pile. A layer of dirt for every foot of leaves will help hold them down and hasten decaying. There are commercial preparations that make the leaves decay quicker, too. Next spring you'll have this partially decayed vegetable matter for your beds.

Foliage Variations

If your garden seems monotonous, probably you need more variety in foliage. This winter see if you can work in some palms, yucca, paper plant, finger trees or other spike or broad - leaf evergreens.

There are many variegated plants in the nurseries, too. Pittosporum is gorgeous, the gray and white varieties. Some boxwoods have variegated foliage as well as hollys. Some of the viburnums have an interesting grayish look that combines well with green shrubs. Now is the time to decide what you need. Planting comes in the winter.

Have you noticed the gorgeous white lilies blooming around town? They're Phillipine lilies. Remember to put out some bulbs this fall. They'll give you lots of pleasure for little labor.

If you have lots of shade and yet want plants too, raised beds may be your answer. In that way the feeder roots of the shrubs are not competing too much with those of the trees. There's a disadvantage though. Raised beds dry out so very fast, therefore require more watering. You also need more feeding because lots of the fertilizer washes away. When you have trees you'll need constantly to add good soil to your shrubs. There are lots of shade loving plants, but they don't want the depleted soil that trees leave. They need good made soil with plenty of humus. You have a drying problem, too, when there are lots of tree roots, and humus helps to hold moisture.

Very heavy tree shade can be modified by thinning branches or by removal of lower limbs. Azaleas love shade as do camellias. Others are dogwood, euonymus, pyracantha, red bud, dwarf gardenias and some of the smal hollys. I have dwarf youpon growing in almost dense shade.

Other plants that will grow in partial shade are flowering almond, abelia, lirope, monkey grass, hosta, day lilies, clematis, hydrangea, pittosporum, plumbago, mahonia, nandina, viburnum, violets, weigelia, begonia, caladium and calla.

'Tis True

With the presidential election coming up, I thought it might be fun to see how the Republican and Democratic candidates measure up to past presidents. Here's what I found from reading: If Eisenhower wins the election he'll be the fourteenth Republican to occupy the White House. If the Democratic candidate wins, he'll be the tenth Democratic president.

The state of Virginia had produced more presidents than any other state in the union — eight to be exact. Ohio runs a close second with seven, and four have hailed from New York. President Eisenhower is Texas born. He is the first president from that state.

November heads the list of the months when most presidents were born, five. March, April and October are next, with four each. Eisenhower was born in October. There's never been a president born in the month of June. Guess that month is reserved for brides.

As to age, most presidents have been inaugurated into office between 51 and 57. The youngest was Theodore Roosevelt at the age of 42, and the oldest, William Henry Harrison, 68.

Food In The News

It's still midsummer — turkey time. This bird is selling almost ten cents a pound cheaper than last December. Turkey meat is mild in flavor, low in fat — a taste treat for this time of year.

Summer squash is a mild and modest vegetable. It gets along happily with so many other food personalities such as onion, salty bacon and sharp cheese. It also has a personality of its own that emerges with delicate sweetness when it's merely steamed and lightly seasoned with salt, pepper and butter.

In summer, squash that hasn't reached maturity, both skin and seeds are so tender that the whole squash may be cooked without peeling or wastage. The delicate flavor is lost if too much water is used in boiling. It is an excellent source of vitamin C. Only gives seventeen calories per half cup serving.

Here is a recipe I think you'll like:

Baked Summer Squash

2 summer squash (¾ lb. each).
2 tablespoons boiling water.
1½ cups soft breadcrumbs.
1¼ teaspoons salt.
2 eggs.

Two-thirds cup grated American cheese.
½ cup chopped luncheon meat.
⅛ teaspoon ground black pepper.
1 teaspoon minced fresh parsley.
1 teaspoon minced onion.

Wash squash, (do not peel) and cut in half lengthwise, allowing ½ squash per serving. Scoop out the centers, leaving a shell ¼ inch thick. Cook the scooped out portion in the boiling water and ¼ teaspoon of the salt until tender. Mash and combine with bread crumbs, eggs, cheese, luncheon meat, black pepper, parsley, onion, milk and remaining salt. Fill squash shells with the mixture. Cover and bake in a preheated hot oven (400 degrees F.) 1 hour or until squash is tender. Remove cover and bake 10 minutes longer or until crumbs are brown. Serve hot.

Yield: 4 servings.

Extra

The United States Department of Agriculture's research service says homemakers should beware of the combination of plastic hanger moth repellents containing paradichlorobenzene and hot weather. Some plastics soften when in the presence of this type moth preventive and what appears to be drops of melted plastic soak into the garments stored on these hangers.

Say! Don't throw away your wax milk cartons. Wash some of them and use to make "ice blocks" to take along on picnics or just to keep in the freezer for emergency use. These ice blocks keep longer than ice cubes. All you can do is fill the empty wax milk carton (top cut off) with water and freeze.

CAMERA NEWS

By IRVING RESFOR
Ap Newsfeatures

The traditional pastime of second - guessing is probably in full swing now as returning camera fans view their vacation picture results. It's no different at my house for, despite all the advice I dish out, a couple of items were neglected and as a result there are picture losses that can't be duplicated.

Before any important family photo to event, a holiday excursion or a vacation, the cardinal rule is: Check your camera and, if possible, run some film through as a test.

That's what I failed to do with my movie camera. Now I'm unhappy, to put it mildly, as the first three rolls back show large amounts of blank footage on each. It indicates a possibly faulty shutter operation but you can be sure it goes back to my camera shop, along with the film. Let an expert find the exact trouble and fix it.

I am glad, though, that I overruled my wife by taking a second and a third camera along. I wouldn't go anywhere without a small camera for black - and-white snapshots. The third camera is for color slides, as you might have guessed, except in my case I've gone overboard for stereo so most everything is in three dimensions as well as color.

While the other cameras proved a good backstop in those spots where the movie camera went blank, they brought trouble in another direction. There were times when sightseeing with three children and three cameras was almost impossible. On occasions, it led to open rebellion as my subjects refused to cooperate by the time it got around to the third camera.

I still feel that a personal tie with any scene or activity makes a vacation picture better. At the same time I object to the obviously posed shot with a "Take-it-already!" expression. So there were times when the longer I waited for natural, unposed action, the more impatient the kids became to be off elsewhere.

Usually these situations would end in compromise — I would snap in desperation merely to record the scene, and the kids would be on their way elsewhere.

Going over my pictures now, I feel that I didn't get enough general views and locality names to set the scene for various places we visited. It's a mistake to pass that first billboard, sign or over-all view without a picture because you feel you'll come to something better. Why not stop and take a picture merely for insurance and if you come to something better, take that too.

It's a mistake also to put off taking pictures of people and places to do it later!" I see now that so many of the people who made our first visit to California so enjoyable and many of the places we visited and stayed never did get photographed after all. If I could retrace my steps, they'd be snapped on the very first go-round.

I'd also start an earlier, more earnest campaign to infect my wife and oldest daughter with the photography virus. It would take a great weight off my mind . . . and shoulders . . . if each one would relieve me of a camera and I could concentrate solely on the third dimension.

Fortunately, my vacation picture report has its bright side too. My wife and daughter did relieve me of a camera now and then, out of compassion, and are thrilled with some of the good shots they got. It makes my plan for next year easier, I hope. And some of the stereo pictures capture the color, the mood and the full dimensions of scenes in a breathless way that no other photographic medium can match. Unfortunately it's a medium that can not be shared with newspaper readers.

In flying across the country, I found that airline personnel gave camera fans a little more leeway so as to get photos. At Yosemite National Park, I saw more camera toting tourists than anywhere outside of a camera club outing. I thought it was a record until I got to Anaheim, California, better known now as Disneyland. It is a fabulous place for children . . . and color fans. Here's a place, like a perpetual world's fair, where black - and - white film doesn't do justice to the colorful costumes and backgrounds.

In Hollywood, some of the family's biggest thrills were in visiting the Paramount and Warner Bros. movie studios. It came as a surprise to learn that in almost all cases, visitors' cameras are barred. Only newspaper and authorized studio photographers are permitted to shoot pictures because of the possibility of too candid or unflattering pictures of stars. Furthermore, present union regulations decree that a standby union photographer must be paid if anybody else shoots pictures on the studio lot. That alone makes it understandable why tourists' cameras are barred.

I hope it doesn't give my kids an idea. They might form their own union and enforce a similar regulation on all our trips.

Garden Center Notes

By Mary M. Jardine

Flower Exhibit Presents Artistic Displays

Mrs. M. H. Kulcke staged the flower show at the Garden Center this week.

A vertical arrangement of ginger lily blossoms with green canna leaves bordered with purple and a purple vein, illustrated a fine harmony created through the appropriate combination of material. The symmetrical overlapping of canna leaves, turned with back of leaves to the front to display their strong central vein, built a sweeping vertical that completed the straight lines of the ginger lilies. The color combination of the ginger lilies and the canna leaves was furthered by the richness of the soft green, flat pottery container. This arrangement would be a conversation piece on a buffet table.

The composition of succulents and sansevieria was created on a leaf shape base of natural colored pine. This design was fantastically similar in color and texture. In the back of the four tall leaves of sansevieria cut of different lengths were placed firmly erect. A rosette of jade plant was placed at the center base. The graceful inverted curved leaves of the jade formed the central point of interest. Plants of the Aloes were placed on either side of the arrangement. Near the tip of the leaf base a small aloe plant was fastened in a pin point holder. The holder was concealed by placement of the dense rosettes of the sempervibum. This was placed against a grey background. When succulent plant material is arranged without water, they last for months. Water hastens deterioration of succulent plant material.

A very pretty and cool summer time arrangement was made of white petunias and white - green striped caladium leaves. A clematis branch was placed upright in the back of the arrangement. The caladium leaves were placed at the base and over the rim of the container. This design was made in a white leaf shaped pottery container placed against a chartreuse background. It would be cool and inviting used in an entrance hall.

An arrangement using complimentary colors was made of gladiolus, Pompon zinnias, liriope, celosia and foliage of pyracantha. The yellow gladiolus and and violent liriope were used as spike material in this mass-triangle design. The graceful curve of the thin blossom of celosia added the softness of the line of the design. The violet and red - violet zinnias were used to fill in, while arrangement was enhanced by the flat violet colored pottery container. This arrangement was placed against a soft pink background.

We have bulletin No. 391 in the Garden Center. This is the 1956 revised bulletin on Camellias for the Yard, by W. D. Kimbrough, R. H. Hanchey and J. S. Roussel.

Fall season is time to plant bulbs. We have a book in our library at the Garden Center that will tell you about bulbs. "Garden Bulbs in Color" by J. Horace McFarland. This book is illustrated in color. Beginners will want to read this book because it illustrates and defines the different types of daffodils — the trumpets, the incomps, the Barris, the leedsis, etc., and the various "broken" tulips. The comprehensive presentation of lilies, and the broad survey of the less usual but very desirable bulbs not generally grown, adds to the values of this book.

Johnson Grass Makes Good Hay

STATE COLLEGE, Miss., Aug. 18 (AP)— Johnson grass makes good hay if it is fertilized three or four times a year, W. R. Thompson, pasture specialist of the Agriculture Extension Service said today.

Farmers can be misguided by the fact the first cutting is coarse, low grade hay.

"I have learned two things in working with Johnson grass hay this year," said Thompson. "First, that fertilizer not only makes more hay, but a better quality hay each cutting. Second, to get good hay it must be cut three or four times a year."

The hay also was improved by killing out bitter weeds with Amine 2, 4-D, he said.

BOOKS

V. S. PRITCHETT

The Sailor, Sense Of Humour, and Other Stories. By V. S. Pritchett. Knopf.

Written over the last 16 years, sandwiched between work on novels, news articles, lectures and essays, here are 25 short stories by an Englishman who is an astute student of this form of writing, and often a veritable master of it.

In his preface Pritchett says he finds "drama in human personality, in character rather than in events." That may partly explain why an occasional piece is rather a sketch than a story, about people worth Pritchett's time and yours but not a wholly successful unity with an end equal in appeal to beginning and middle. After that reservation, for you and not me (for every word interests me), this is an extraordinary collection with a vast variety of material, and an occasional story memorable in any year in any company.

Pritchett's people include a merchant, a healer, defrocked minister, doctor, dentist, upholsterer, antique dealer, undertaker; you take him for an authority on innumerable aspects of English life. He does a deadly job on a dentist, and a barber, and there is a skin-creeping "Miss Baker." the best story, and the best I've read in I don't know how long, is the "Sense of Humour", about an undertaker's son turned salesman who steals a girl from a garage worker and marries her. It is macabre and Micawber, too, a diabolical, withering exposure of how commonplace life and love and death become in the behavior of commonplace people.

LET'S EXPLORE YOUR MIND

By ALBERT EDWARD WIGGAM, D. Sc.

Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.

Answer to Question No. 1

1. Yes, according to Dr. Frances M. Wilson, in "Mental Hygiene." Boys are afraid of being "trapped by a dame." Girls are happy because they find conquest of the male exciting, and they know they are attractive — whereas the boy often "views his appearance somewhat dimly." Girls look forward to their twenties when they hope to achieve the status of a wife but fear they'll be "trapped" by homemaking and motherhood. Boys look to the twenties as the time when they will have proved their ability to establish their own homes and families.

Do modern gadgets make it easier to be a wife and mother?

Your opinion—

2. Not fundamentally. Dr. and Mrs. T. J. Landis point out in their splendid book, "Marriage Handbook," modern conveniences lighten the mechanical side of housekeeping, but don't greatly help in homemaking. Homemaking is a spiritual and intellectual problem —promoting harmony, courage, self - confidence, personality development, and happiness of husband and children. Indeed, some "perfectionist" housekeepers are the poorest wives and mothers. They make everybody fearful of breaking or soiling something instead of making a home to live in.

Healthful living is largely a matter of the right kind of emotions.

True — False —

3. Yes. Once you recognize this, it becomes clear how important it is to train and handle your emotions properly, says Dr. John A. Schindler, in "How To Live 365 Days a Year." He says (paraphrased): Happy, fundamental emotions should be the central aim in rearing children. Give them this, and they will have more than they can ever get in any other way. If you have grown up without a naturally happy disposition, it is not too late to cultivate one. The "medicinal" value of good emotions cannot be overestimated.

Be honest with yourself!

Are you really grown - up? An easy formula helps you become a happy, poised person. For "How To Be An Emotional Grownup," send 20 cents (coin only) and self-addressed, stamped envelope (name city and state) to Dr. A. E. Wiggam, c-o this newspaper.

North, Pass.

Opening lead: Ten of hearts.

East was so heavily loaded down with equipment, in today's hand, that he found it difficult to maneuver. However, a little sublety on his part might have been more effective than reliance upon brute strength.

South was not in an idling mood when he accepted his partner's invitation to proceed to game. North, having 18 high card points, was justified in moving forward, for South's one no trump response might have been based on 6, 7, 8 or 9 points. With 8 or 9 points, responder should, of course, proceed to game when opener raises to two. With but 6 or 7 we have found it more profitable to decline the invitation.

West chose to open the ten of hearts. Declarer ducked in dummy. East put up the king and returned the four to drive out dummy's ace. A club was then led from dummy and, when East played low, South won with the queen. He took this occasion to cash the high heart, discarding the nine of spades from dummy, and crossed to dummy by means of the king of spades. When another club was led, East, who now found leading a distinct burden, rose with the ace of clubs and got out with the jack. Declarer cashed the king of clubs and, when the suit broke, he raked in the thirteener, parting with a diamond from dummy. He then finessed the ten of diamonds. East won with the jack but found himself in a helpless position, for whether he returned a diamond or a spade, declarer was presented with trick number nine.

"I had too much for my own good." East complained bitterly. But actually he could have brought about the defeat of the contract by executing a gambit at trick one. Instead of winning with the king of hearts, the recommendation is that he play the jack. Declarer will surely win with the queen. When East subsequently obtains the lead, he drives out the ace of hearts with his king, retaining the four of hearts to put partner in for the kill when he regains the lead, as inevitably he must.

Record Review

By WILLIAM D. LAFFLER
United Press Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK — (UP) — Frank Sinatra is a man of many talents. He was as great a sensation as a singer in his day as Elvis Presley is now and he went on to greater accalim as an Oscar-winning actor.

Some of Sinatra's talents have been hidden. It was not known too well that Sinatra was an accomplished conductor until Columbia put some of his earlier work on an LP on few days ago and Capitol came up with a new one.

Many years ago when Sinatra was enjoying fame as a crooner he became fascinated with some offbeat compositions of Alec Wilder and got Wilder's Octet, which included Mitch Miller on the oboe and English horn, to make some recordings under his baton.

The best of these were "Air for English Horn," "Pieces of Eight" and "Air for Bassoon'." By daring to present this sort of music, Sinatra made it easy for modern jazz groups to try new sounds many years later. The Columbia selection is packaged as "Frank Sinatra 'conducts the Music of Alec Wilder."

Capitol's album, "Frank Sinatra Conducts Tone Poems of Color," is an orchestral reading of music written by Billy May, Nelson Riddle, Gordon Jenkins and others with serious ideas.

For hi-fi fans —"Guy Lombardo in Hi -Fi" (Capitol) and "Adventure in Time" by the Sauter-Finegan Orchestra (RCA - Victor) are new adventures in sound. Lombardo plays 12 oldies with new tones, among them "Boo Hoo" and "The Third Man Theme," while the S- F group concentrates on newer and more daring sounds.

Platter chatter — "The Pirate Parrot" on the Cadence label is the neatest animal record since RCA-Victor's controversial "Singing Dogs" appeared on the scene. . Georgia Gibbs is healed by many as the queen of rock'n roll but her "Happiness Street" (Mercury) is a reminder that she is not tied down to one style . . . . Fred Lowery's whitling of "The Proud Ones" (Decca) gives a haunting atmosphere to a nostalgic tune. . .

Best revivals —"Casey Jones" by Eddy Arnold (RCA- Victor) and "Yes, Sir That's My Baby," by Ralph Marterie (Mercury).

Hard Of Hearing Helped By Patented Invention!

U. S. Patent No. 2,611,829 has made possible an eyeglass hearing aid that requires no wire, no tube, no receiver or earmold, no device that "plugs in" either ear. Developed by Acousticon, oldest and leading manufacturer of electrical hearing aids, the invention makes possible more comfortable inconspicuous correction for thousands who have hearing difficulties.

This exclusive invention is built right into the Spectacon eyeglass hearing aid. The eyeglass frames are made by a leading optical company and are available in any size. They make no sacrifice of optical standards.

You may see for yourself how this remarkable hearing development works—how it is as easy to put on or take off as any pair of glasses. Demonstration is free — see and hear for yourself, without obligation.

Gobel Not Lonesome

HOLLYWOOD August 18 — George Gobel isn't lonesome anymore. Any similarity between him and Lonesome George of old is purely coincidental, the days. Reason for the big emergence from under the shadow of solitude, seems to be Diana Dors, the British oomph - girl who is his leading lady in "I Married A Woman."

This is Gobel's second cinematic venture. "The Birds and the Bees" was his first. In that one he co-starred with Mitzi Gaynor, and he was lonesome as all getout, although very funny.

Mitzi is somewhat taller than George and that may have been the underlying cause of his wistful loneliness, but Miss Dors, who really is the bombshell her press agents say she is - lacks a few inches of George's 5'5" - in height, that is! Her other measurements are much more impressive than his! However, being able to tower over the delectable blonde has apparently done something for Gobel. For the first time in all his life, he told me, he had a yen to travel — but only to England.

"And," he added, "I've only begun to feel that way in the last couple of weeks. I dunno, I seem to think I'd like it there quite a lot."

Miss Dors, who was standing by on the set at the RKO Studios, smiled ot George, and he started to float in her direction. For a moment I thought our interview was over. I plucked him by the sleeve and he quickly recovered for three - point landing.

He pointed out his stand-in, Henry Carr, who is a ringer for the comic - except for his height. Gobel proudly told me, "He's only five feet three, in his stocking feet. He has to wear built - up shoes to get to my height. Boy! I'm getting to be a big man!"

"You seem to be having a lot of fun," I said. "Was it the same way with your first picture?"

"Gosh, no," said George. "I was so scared on that one, I was nervous all the time. The first day I drove in, I was afraid to park my car in the studio lot. I thought the doorman wouldn't recognize me.

"Everything was strange and frightening. When the movie 'pros' stood around talking, I was sure they were talking about me. And when they laughed among themselves, I could only think they were laughing at me for being so dumb. They were great to me, and I learned a lot, but I still feel strange, making movies.

"It's not frightening anymore, though. I think maybe they still laugh at me a little, but now it doesn't worry me."

"A lot of comedians want to make dramatic pictures," I said. "How do you feel about that?"

Gobel shook his head vigorously. "Not me!" he said. "I've got a very good business going, as things are right now. I like what I'm doing and I'm earning a fine living. Why should I want to do anything else? Being a comedian isn't mixed up with my ego.

"I don't have an urge to show the people I can do serious stuff, to prove myself. I'm satisfied to do the best I can in my own field. Suppose I got the bug to play a heavy? Suppose I did it — and suppose I flopped. Where would I go from there? Besides, I've got a feeling I wouldn't be comfortable doing that serious stuff. I'd always be standing outside of myself, making jokes at my own performance. When I do comedy, I'm usually relaxed, I get a good feeling inside. This is what I was born to do. Why should I fight it?"

"Do you prefer working in films to your television chores?" I asked.

"It's altogether different," George said. "Doing a show every Saturday night means you go through a high - strung tense and sometimes nerve - wracking experience at least once a week. A million things can go wrong, and you've got to be aware of all of them.

Gregory Peck To Star In 'Moby Dick' At The Paramount Til Thursday

The Paramount Theatre announces the premiere presentation of John Huston's production of "Moby Dick" beginning today.

Gregory Peck, Richard Basehart, Leo Genn and Orson Welles star in the Warner Bros. presentation of Herman Melville's great American adventure saga. "Moby Dick," reportedly brought to the screen after three years of filming in England, Wales, Ireland, The Irish Sea, the Atlantic Ocean, the Madeira and Canary Islands, was filmed in a new color process by Technicolor. John Huston produced and directed "Moby Dick," the epic story of the men who searched the seven seas for the mammoths of the deep, the giant whales.

Gregory Peck is seen in the role of Captain Ahab, unchallenged tyrant of the whaler, The Pequod. Ahab, who had nearly been destroyed by the giant White Whale, Moby Dick, was possessed of a lust that was like no other vengeance in the world. Ahab had sworn to kill the White Whale and no man in his crew would be spared in the attempt.

For the role of Ishmael, who tells the story of "Moby Dick," John Huston chose Richard Basehart. Ishmael is the romantic adventurer of the Melville saga "with the look of a poet and the strength of a giant." It is he who befriends Queequeeg, the cannibal- turned-harpooner.

Starbuck, first mate of the Pequod, is portrayed by Leo Genn. Starbuck is the man who first becomes aware of Captain Ahab's vengeance -lust and he matches his faith and his fears against the fury of Ahab during a terrifying tropical storm.

Orson Welles as Father Mapple makes a dynamic appearance in the role of the New Bedford preacher who unwittingly prophesied of the evil that lay brooding in Captain Ahab.

"Moby Dick" is said to mark the realization of a thirteen-year dream for producer-director John Huston. Noted for such screen achievements as "Treasure of Sierra Madre," "African Queen," "Moulin Rouge" and others, Huston first planned the filming of "Moby Dick" at a time when his main interest in motion pictures was as a screenwriter. With a writer's eye he envisioned the scope and conflict of "Moby Dick" as providing an exciting panorama of entertainment for everyone. As the years passed and Huston's range of interest grew, his plans started to take shape. For the screenplay, Huston invited Ray Bradbury, noted science -fiction writer to join him in bringing Melville's characters to screen life. As producer-director he spent months scouting remote corners of the world for the ideal setting to match the locales of the story. Finally, a remote fishing village of Youghal, Ireland was selected as the town that most closely resembled New Bedford one hundred years ago. The whaling scenes were filmed in the Atlantic Ocean off the Canary and Madeira Islands. It is reported that in order to match the mood of the action, Huston asked Oswald Morris, his cameraman, to film the motion picture in a new color process. Advance reports indicate that John Huston has achieved all that he set out to do thirteen years ago.

'These Wilder Years' With Stanwyck, Cagney To Be At The Jim Sunday

Every now and then there comes to the screen a motion picture with a heme that touches the heart of everyone who sees it. Such a picture is MGM's "These Wilder Years," now being shown at the Jim Theatre.

With glowing portrayals by James Cagney and Barbara Stanwyck in the leading roles, "These Wilder Years" tells a story of universal appeal, that of a man, who, having deserted a son born out of wedlock twenty years ago, is tortured by the past mistake he now believes he can rectify.

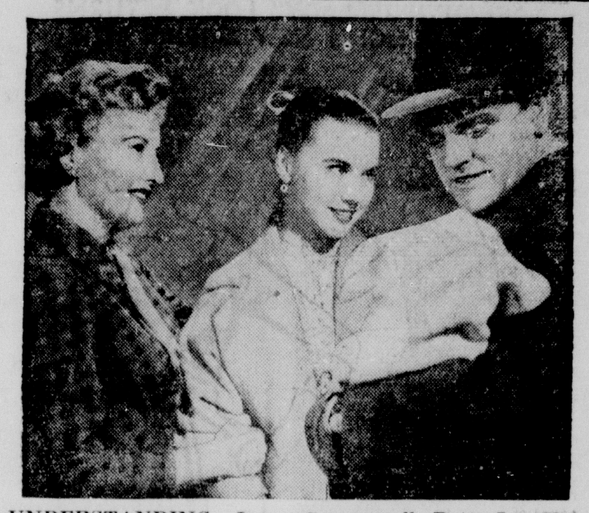
But when self - made millionaire Steven Bradford sets out for the small college town of Bufton to find his now grown-up son, Mark, he discovers that there are some things money cannot buy. It is Ann Dempster, head of the adoption home known as The Haven and a woman who has devoted her entire life to the welfare of unwanted babies, who thwarts Bradford's attempt to locate Mark. Although she sympathizes with this father, who is attempting too late to make amends, Ann cannot let his case jeopardize the happiness and security of countless adopted children and foster parents who would live in fear that the same thing could be done to them.

A determined Bradford risks exposure and scandal to bring the case to court. He hires the country's greatest lawyer and even resorts to fraud. But he loses, Yet, out of defeat emerges triumph. Bradford comes to understand the selfless integrity of Ann Dempster. And, through her, he meets the son he now knows will be happier with the foster parents Mark has come to feel are his very own. And, finally, Bradford comes to know homeless, sixteen - year - old Suzie Keller and her fatherless child, who change the course of his life.

The performances of the stars in "These Wilder Years" put a solid foundation under the drama. James Cagney plays the part of Steven Bradford with acute perception, making a sympathetic and credible figure of a man who learns compassion the hard way. As Ann Dempster, the woman who refuses to be intimidated or bribed, Barbara Stanwyck is direct and eloquent. They are beautifully matched.

Walter Pidgeon is incisive as the celebrated lawyer who, for the first time, is happy to lose a case. Don Dubbins is affecting as the son who meets his father too late, and Betty Lou Keim gives a delicate and luminous portrayal of Suzie Keller, who finds happiness through tragedy.

"These Wilder Years" was directed by Roy Rowland, who directed the successful musical, "Meet Me In Las Vegas," and who now reveals his versatility with his warm direction of this heart-touching drama. Jules Schermer produced.



UNDERSTANDING—James Cagney tells Betty Lou Keim that she and her baby will find love and protection under his roof, as Barbara Stanwyck looks on. Film to start today at the Jim.

Why Grow Old?

By Josephine Lowman

Check Self Periodically To Arrest Signs Of Aging

I cannot imagine anything more neurotic or more boring than spending a part of every day peering at oneself in the mirror to look for some new sign of aging. However, the alert woman does give herself the "once over" periodically in order to catch those small signs before they turn into big handicaps.

Aging is an accumulative process and the first droop, the first little lines, the bulge at the thighs and other symptoms, can be minimized and controlled somewhat if you get to work on them immediately.

No woman can expect to look at middle age like she did as a young girl, but she can appear years younger than she is if she will be on the lookout for small signs of deterioration. These small defects may seem to have appeared overnight but actually they had been getting worse for some time before you noticed them.

Lubrication

In the question of lines on the face we must think of lubrication and more lubrication. We will take cleanliness for granted as a part of the day's routine. As I have said before, the natural oils dry out gradually. This fact, plus the exposure our faces and necks take from sun and wind and cold, make regular lubrication essential.

The best way to apply cream is to pat it on. However, if you have deep lines you can massage the cream along the line, using a rotary motion. General facial massage is apt to stretch the skin and speed the loss of fatty deposits if it is not done by an expert.

If you notice that your pores are getting large in certain areas of your face, begin using soap and water on those portions and an astringent afterwards.

Probably every woman past 35 should use a hormone cream or oil and take facial exercises.

Use Eye Cream

Pat eye cream about your eyes every night before going to sleep. If your hair looks dull begin the scalp massage you have been planning for so long.

Remember, too, that good nutrition, general exercises and happy thoughts and emotions, are reflected in your skin. Also beware of extreme facial expressions such as lifting the eyebrows and so forth.

When checking yourself periodically do not forget to climb onto the scales once in awhile. Also check your posture. This often becomes lazy with the years. You can take a beautiful carriage down the years with you and nothing will make you look more youthful or more lovely.

If you would like to have my facial exercises send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 9 "Facial Exercises," to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Coast Guard To Sift Testimony In Rig Capsizing

NEW ORLEANS —UP— The Coast Guard said today it may take several months to sift testimony before reaching a verdict in its investigation of the capsizing of a $1.5 million offshore oil rig that plunged four workers to their deaths in the Mississippi river.

Some 17 witnesses testified at the two-day hearings before Capt. James B. Rucker, chairman of the board of inquiry, recessed hearings.

Most of the witnesses were workmen near the huge barge at the time it overturned at its construction site at the Avondale Marine Ways Co. docks.

Only one had any theory for the cause of the disastrous mishap, as each said they had but a few seconds warning the big rig was listing and about to overturn.

Harry W. Blakely, a naval architect with a firm which designed the barge, said "the only way" the mammoth drilling platform could have capsized was if its ballast were unbalanced.

Blakely said the barge, bigger in area than a basketball court, was designed "primarily for stability" and tipped over only if the ballast tanks were unbalanced.

Some of the workers, in the process of changing shifts at the time of the mishap, leaped into the murky waters of the Mississippi to escape when the rig toppled over Aug. 10.

One of the four drowned men, Herman Ray, Kilgore, Tex., has not been found yet. The other three bodies were recovered shortly after the accident.

A 140-foot derrick was in place atop the platform, and Blakely said if a 15 degree list had been permitted, that would have been sufficient to topple the rig.

The platform was designed for offshore drilling in the Gulf of Mexico in waters of 25-feet depth.

The big rig was being constructed for the Southeastern Drilling Co. of Dallas.

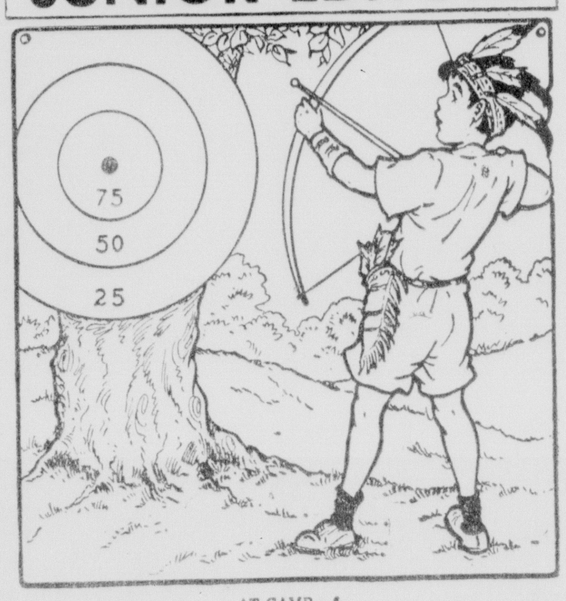
NEW YORK —UP— A dental survey found that after 35 years of age gum diseases are responsible for two to three times as many extractions as decay.

TODAY'S ASSIGNMENT FOR:

JUNIOR EDITORS



AT CAMP—6

Hitting the Bull's Eye

Archery is one of the best games at camp. Sometimes the camp provides bows and arrows, and other times the archer makes his own or brings them from home.

Jimmy's arrow has a rubber tip on it, so no one will be hurt by it. He wears a leather protector on his left wrist so the flying arrow will not scrape his skin. At his waist he has a quiver full of extra arrows.

Color the picture with your crayons making the 75 circle red, and the 25 circle blue. Leave the 50 circle white. Make holes at the corners and hang the picture up by string out in the yard. Choose a place against a blank wall, where nothing can be damaged by a hit.

Then if you have an archery set, try to hit the bull's eye, which scores 100. See how many shots it takes to score 500.

If you don't have a bow and arrow, use a pea shooter.

TIM TYLER'S LUCK

BY LYMAN YOUNG and TOM MASSEY

WHY YOU DARE ENTER THE SECRET CAVE OF CHIEF TOBOLA?

I-I DIDN'T EXPECT TO FIND ANYBODY IN THIS PLACE, CHIEF!

I FOLLOWED SOME STRANGE MARKINGS ON THE SURFACE ROCKS — THEY LED ME TO A HOLE IN THE GROUND AND I CAME DOWN —

CHIEF TOBOLA AND HIS PEOPLE LIVE IN HERE FOR MANY MOONS — ONLY AT NIGHT DO WE GO OUT AND SEARCH FOR FOOD AND FIGHT OUR ENEMIES!

SPUD CONTINUES HIS SEARCH....

THAT DRUM BEATING I HEARD COULD MEAN THIS PLACE IS INHABITED BY CAVE DWELLERS!

HOW COME YOU CAN TALK ENGLISH, CHIEF?

ME LEARN FROM OLD SLAVE MAN— COME WITH ME!

WHO'S THAT?

HIS NAME IS AMOS - IT IS HE WHO TAUGHT ME YOUR LANGUAGE!

AMOS IS NOW MUCH TOO OLD TO DO HIS WORK ALONE... IT SHALL BE YOUR DUTY TO AID HIM!

HEY- JUST A MINUTE THERE, CHIEF TOBOLA! YOU'RE NOT GOING TO MAKE ME ONE OF YOUR SLAVES!

SNAPPER WAITS AT THE CAVE ENTRANCE...

I CAN'T STAND THIS AWFUL SUSPENSE MUCH LONGER... I FEEL THOSE TWO LADS ARE IN SERIOUS TROUBLE, BUT I-I CAN'T HELP THEM SITTING UP HERE— I'VE A MIND TO SLIDE DOWN TH' ROPE AND —
